THIS IS THE SCENE OF a fatal car accident on the Old Vernon Road shortly after 8 a.m. today. A Kelowna woman, driver of the car in the foreground, was seriously injured. An unidentified Prince Rupert area man, believed to be a transient laborer, was killed in the other car. The driver of the second car is being detained by Kelowna RCMP for questioning. (Courier photo)

FEB. 1 DEADLINE

Five-Day Week For Post Office

OTTAWA (CP) — Saturday mail delivery will be discontinued Feb. 1, 1969, Postmaster-General Eric Kierans announced today in the Commons. He said post offices will be closed Saturday as of that date and there will be no delivery of letters or parcels on city or rural routes. Mr. Kierans said there is no need of postal services on the weekend because 80 per cent of all first-class mail originates with business or government, which does not normally operate on weekends. He said costs are increasing and that the post office must operate within its revenue. Opposition spokesmen complained that the government hadn't extended "the customary courtesy" of allowing them to see the announcement before it was made in the Commons. Heath Macquarrie (PC—Hills-

Kelowna Woman Seriously Injured

A man from the Prince Rupert area is dead and a Kelowna woman was taken to hospital early today in serious condition after a two-car collision on the Old Vernon Road near Reid's Corner. RCMP are withholding the names of the two pending notification of relatives. A Penticton man is being detained by police for questioning.

Few details of the fatal accident are available, but it is known the injured woman was the driver of one car. The deceased man was a passenger in the other car, driven by the Penticton man. The crash occurred shortly after 8 a.m. Coroner D. M. White was at the scene of the accident.

Nightmare On Bernard Avenue

The normal peaceful bustle of Bernard Avenue was transformed Thursday night into a macabre nightmare scene of twisted metal, blood, broken glass and flashing police lights.

Six people, one of them from Kelowna, were taken to Kelowna General Hospital after a two-car smash at 10:10 p.m. at the corner of Bernard Avenue and Pandosy Street. Only one of the injured was admitted. He is Alden Tillapaugh, Kelowna, the driver of one of the vehicles. He suffered a broken shoulder and is in "satisfactory" condition today. Five people in the other car were treated and released. They are: Andrew Barendregt, the driver, Smithers; Danny Watson, Cumberland; Larry Thomas, North Surrey; Gaynal Arnett, Prince George and Keith Young, Prince George.

RCMP re-directed traffic around the accident scene where broken windshield glass littered the street. A large crowd gathered to watch the gory scene as police investigated and the injured were taken by ambulance to hospital. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at about $1,000. A three-car crash occurred Thursday at noon on Highway 97 at Duck Lake, RCMP report. No one was injured in the mishap, but aggregate damage of $800 resulted. Drivers were: Albert Gurney, Kamloops; Mike Abousafy, Wetaskwin, Alta., and Margaret King, Lumby. Details of the accident are not available. RCMP investigated a small number of minor complaints overnight.

Trudeau Explains

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today Canada would be "helping a rebel cause in a friendly state" if it tried to relieve starvation in Biafra without the approval of the Nigerian federal government.

He told the Commons this is why the Canadian government cannot "intervene" in Nigeria, even for humanitarian reasons. But he invited churches and individual citizens to give whatever help they wish through religious and private channels.

It's A War At Picon . . .

PICTON, Ont. (CP) — A strike at the Proctor-Silex plant 20 miles southeast of Belleville, has taken on a military look. Even a helicopter is in use.

Using tactics he learned in the army, plant manager J. V. Findlay Thursday led eight employees around a picket line and into the plant's back entrance, through a corn field. Four supervisory personnel later followed the same route.

The plant's access road is blocked off by a barricade of tree trunks, boards, tires and garbage, forcing Mr. Findlay to find another route to work. Mr. Findlay, who has been pelted with paint, rocks and fruit, said he will be back today with more workers. "They have a right to strike," he said, "but I also have a right to keep operative. I'm fighting a war."

Doctor Jailed For Three Years

MONTREAL (CP) — A 35-year-old doctor Thursday was sentenced to three years imprisonment after he pleaded guilty to possession of $12,000 worth of stolen paintings. Dr. Jean Houle was sentenced in sessions court after police officers testified the stolen paintings had been found in his home.

Canada Reduces Trading Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada reduced its deficit on current transactions with other countries to $236,000,000 in the first half of 1968 from $614,000,000 in the same period of 1967, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The improvement was so marked in April, May and June that a $3,000,000 surplus was recorded, the first quarterly surplus in the balance of payments in almost 16 years.

Trade with the United States accounted for the first-half results.

After a first-quarter crisis in the exchange market, stability and confidence returned. There was a massive second-quarter shift from outflows of capital to inflows. The monetary losses of $765,000,000 that occurred in the first quarter were followed by a recovery of $620,000,000 in the second.

The $598,000,000 merchandise trade surplus during the first half compared with $104,000,000 in the same period last year. In current transactions of a non-merchandise character, the deficit increased to $834,000,000 from $718,000,000.

Exports were up $933,000,000 or 16 per cent from the first half of 1967, with 40 per cent of the improvement owing to trade in automotive products. Major increases also occurred in copper ores, iron ores, steel alloys and plates.

IMPORTS INCREASE
Imports increased eight per cent or $439,000,000, predominantly because of automotive purchases from the U.S.

Although travel receipts were down from last year as expected, the second-quarter travel deficit was only $8,000,000, smallest since 1950 with the exception of 1967. Six-month receipts of $314,000,000 were down $114,000,000 from last year but up $257,000,000 from the same period of 1966.

Rebellion In R.C. Church Spreads On Birth Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Protests in Washington may become a test case for American Roman Catholics dissenting against the Pope's ban on artificial birth control.

In Washington, Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle's insistence on compliance with the order has brought church walkouts and defiance by some priests.

Cardinal O'Boyle has penalized 13 priests and threatened penalties to 31 others for refusing to withdraw their objections to the encyclical.

"Throughout the country, many bishops apparently are waiting to see how the crack-down there comes off," said Toby Stein, communications chairman of the National Association of Catholic Laymen.

"If it works, some may go ahead with similar measures. That's why it's so important that the effort there be countered."

Elsewhere, there has been scattered lay conflict with ecclesiastical authority, including a walkout of a half dozen people from St. Patrick's Cathedral here.

But most of the lay opposition has been in statements and studies, as has that of some clergymen. Few bishops have acted to force a showdown, although Bishop James A. McNulty, of Buffalo, N.Y., did transfer seven dissenting faculty members from a seminary.

Some laymen and priests have expressed support.

Two Of 20 Tenders Approved For Lakeview Water Project

Two of 20 tenders have received the approval of the Lakeview Irrigation District for its water rehabilitation project to be built under the Agricultural Rural Development Act.

Before a contract can be awarded, approval is also necessary from ARDA in Victoria, but this is considered a mere formality.

Canadian Phoenix Steel and Pipe Ltd., Calgary, entered a low bid of $207,843 for 21,000 feet of 34-inch diameter steel pipe and Alberta Utility Builders Ltd., Vancouver submitted the lowest of the installation tenders.

OPENED SEPT. 12
The tenders were opened in Kelowna Sept. 12 but time was needed to find the over-all high and low bids because of the various types of pipes, and some firms bidding on combinations of pipe and installation. Work is expected to begin as soon as the contract is awarded with completion hoped for by spring.

The ARDA project will improve the water system for some 1,125 acres of irrigated orchards and provide domestic water for 120 farms.

The project was approved by the federal and provincial governments in April. In August a contract was awarded to Gilmore Construction, Westbank, for $26,000 for construction of a concrete intake and dam on Lambley (Bear) Creek, replacing a wood diversion dam. Completion is expected soon on this section of the project.

The preliminary survey, drawings and specifications were done by Interior Engineering of Kelowna.

JERUSALEM (CP) — Mine explosions that killed four persons on both sides of the Jordan and Shelling exchanges were reported today by Jordan and Israel. The Israeli Army said three soldiers were killed and two injured when a command car ran over an anti-vehicle mine deep in the Neges Desert Thursday night.

U.S. May Quit Bases In Spain

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — United States military bases will be forced out of Spain by 1970 unless Washington within the next six months is willing to meet Spanish demands of heavy financial aid for its armed forces.

Spain notified the state department Thursday it intended to cancel a 15-year-old defence pact with the United States unless the U.S. accepted a "final" Spanish demand for about $700,000,000 in military aid as the price of allowing American bases to remain in the country. The last U.S. offer was for about $100,000,000 over a five-year period, defence officials said.

Both sides agreed to continue discussions on the issue for another six months. Failure to renew the agreement would mean the U.S. would have to pull out of Spain by March 1970.

Suicidal Viet Cong Horde Loses 276 Men In Assaults

SAIGON (AP) — Guerrillas swarmed out of flooded rice-lands close to the Cambodian border today and lost at least 276 of their men in almost suicidal assaults on two well-defended South Vietnamese frontier camps.

The two attacking forces totalling about 900 men. They left large numbers of rifles, machine-guns, grenade launchers, radios and other equipment on the fields of battle.

The defenders reported 11 South Vietnamese killed and 100 wounded. Four Americans in one of the camps were wounded.

Coinciding with the fierce ground assaults on the camps at Thien Ngan and Phuoc Tan, west of Tay Ninh City, insurgents laid a savage barrage of rocket and mortar fire on the Special Forces camp at Katun, north of the provincial capital, which was the target of an attack Wednesday in which 135 guerrillas were killed.

The attacks in Tay Ninh province and intelligence reports of other Communist forces manoeuvring in the area brought massive F-52 strikes on the principal infiltration route toward Saigon, 70 miles to the southeast.

While Tay Ninh province was the scene of the heaviest action, U.S. headquarters reported more fighting in the northern provinces and three helicopters and a U.S. jet were shot down there. Four of the helicopter crew and two marine flyers were killed.

The frontal assaults on fortified camps along the border may be an attempt to draw South Vietnamese and American forces away from Tay Ninh City and Saigon.

New Heart Beats Well

MONTREAL (CP) — The new heart of Canada's fourth heart transplant recipient, 31-year-old Edmund Desjardins, was "beating beautifully" after it began its functions Thursday night at the Montreal Heart Institute.

Chief surgeon in charge of the transplant, Dr. Pierre Gosselin, said at a news conference following the operation that the Quebec City native's new heart "took over the load of circulation beautifully at 9:00 p.m. EDT."

Pollution 'Could Do Job' But Slower Than H-Bomb

Man must come to grips with a water and air pollution problem which can slowly accomplish what a hydrogen bomb can do "in one blinding flash," a du Pont executive said Thursday in Montreal. Speaking at a Canadian Public Relations Society meeting, Glenn Ferry, director of public relations for E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. said air and water pollution was a problem which would involve the spending of billions of dollars in the coming decades. He said it was "no longer possible when you have depleted the soil, fouled the water and filled the air with smog and hydro-carbon pollutants, to move to some other virgin spot and start all over again."

The moderator of the United Church of Canada said Thursday in Vancouver the western world's prolonged education system delays marriage too long and the western marriage system is the world's worst. Dr. Robert McClure, a medical missionary in India for 14 years, said the average age of the bridegroom in India is 12. "If Willy and Mary are going to have the urge, wouldn't it be better for them to get married than for Mary to get pregnant before marriage," he said. "Then we parents would know where they are on Friday nights."

"Canadians have written off the family system," he said, and instead we have eight counts of tax evasion involving $349,845. Prescott also pleaded guilty to an additional charge of acquiescing in the making of a false and deceptive statement of a company of which he was a director.

Auditors continued to pore over the books at the Royal Bank of Canada branch in Penetanguishen Thursday following the discovery of a $492,000 shortage and the arrest of two women, one of them an employee at the bank. Bank officials said the audit will probably take four or five days. The money has not been recovered. Meanwhile the two women, Kathleen Spiller, 26, the employee and Frances (Bambi) Shubin, a bookkeeper, remained free on $10,000 bail each on a charge of theft over $50. Miss Spiller is also charged with falsifying bank records with intent to defraud.

Premier Bennett said Thursday in Vancouver that Coquitlam and other British Columbia municipalities will get government money for schools and school sites only when they need it. "As minister of finance I will see that the money is available," he said in an interview. "But it will be up to the school boards and the department of education to decide what is necessary."

Canadian Finance Minister Edgar Benson says in London his proposed government-controlled Canadian development corporation may eventually grow into a $1,000,000,000 operation. Benson touched on the latest plans for this venture in a press conference Thursday which related mainly to the two-day Commonwealth finance ministers' conference.

Vancouver lawyer, Victor M. Prescott, 43, Thursday pleaded guilty in magistrate's court to eight counts of tax evasion involving $349,845. Prescott also pleaded guilty to an additional charge of acquiescing in the making of a false and deceptive statement of a company of which he was a director.

A spokesman for George Wallace has denied any romantic link between the third party presidential candidate and a curvaceous blonde who has appeared with his campaign party and says she is willing to marry him. The spokesman said Thursday in Montgomery, Ala. that the former Alabama governor's knowledge of the girl, JaNee Welch, had been limited to "seeing her a couple of times on an airplane" and added she had been dismissed from the tour.

Few Changes For Portugal

LISBON (AP) — Portugal's new premier made few changes in Antonio Salazar's government today, and the politically apathetic Portuguese showed no initial excitement at the replacement of the dictator who had ruled them for 40 years.

After a week of anticipation, President Americo Thomaz announced Thursday night he had appointed Marcello Caetano, a 62-year-old law professor and longtime associate of Salazar, to replace the premier who has been in a coma since a stroke Sept. 16.

Caetano already had given Thomaz the go-ahead to reappoint all of Salazar's cabinet except four ministers and two undersecretaries. The few changes gave observers no clue to any changes in policy the new premier might have in mind.

Caetano is widely known, having been Salazar's right-hand man in the 1950s and later the strong-willed rector of Lisbon University.

Thomaz said even if the 70-year-old Salazar survives, "there is no hope of his being able to carry out his high duties in full again."

Political observers look for some changes from Caetano, but only slight ones and only after he has gained a firm base of support within the armed forces.

College Bans African Attire - Students Riot

BOSTON (AP) — The normal daylight hustle-bustle of the Roxbury ghetto has been shattered by two days of violence as roving gangs of angry young Negroes rampaged on a wave of beatings, robberies and looting that have reached from the streets into private homes.

The disorders caused one death, injury to 14 policemen and 22 civilians, and a score of arrests for assault.

However, two police officials, Deputy Supts. Herbert F. Mullooney and Warren Blair, expressed confidence that the disturbance could now be curbed. They said the police department had received the aid of an influential segment of young people in the black community.

In Thursday's violence, a husband and wife were beaten and robbed in their home; an automobile was overturned and set afire, and arriving firemen were made targets for bottles and stones; liquor stores were looted, and a man was robbed of $150 in broad daylight on a street.

Not even a Roman Catholic priest escaped. Rev. John Murray, 33, of St. Patrick's Church suffered facial cuts when a group he described as "a huge, angry mob" bombarded his car with rocks and chunks of concrete when he stopped at a traffic light.

The Negro unrest first appeared Monday when black students at Boston English high school became unruly over the school department's refusal to allow them to wear African native dress to classes.

Canada Facing Dilemma In NATO Force Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — The only place in the world where the two super-powers, the United States and Russia, stand toe to toe — arms still at their sides, thankfully — is central Europe; specifically, on the border of West Germany.

Wars have been fought — and are still being fought — in places like Korea, the Middle East and Vietnam. But the U.S. and Russia have not engaged each other because their vital interests were not directly affected.

But in Europe the vital interests of the two come slap up against each other. There is the cockpit of all world crises.

Until Aug. 20, there was a good deal of feeling in the West that tensions were easing, that at long last some progress might be made toward a European settlement — in effect, a German peace treaty, still not arrived at since the 1939-45 war.

This feeling was dashed at 11 p.m. that summer night when Russia and most of its Warsaw Pact partners invaded and occupied Czechoslovakia.

The Soviet decision to attack apparently was made only some 36 hours before invasion. The Iron Curtain, raised an inch or two through long years of painstaking negotiation, clanged down again and the jittery days of the cold war again shivered Europe.

The Soviet move caught the Canadian government in the middle of a review of its role in NATO. Specifically, this review posed a single question: When will Canadian troops be withdrawn from Europe?

For nearly two decades, this country has maintained a crack mechanized infantry brigade and an air division — formerly jet interceptors, now nuclear strike bombers — in Europe. All these Canadian troops — some 10,000 — now are based in Western Germany.

A whole generation has grown up since the ugly days of Stalin oppression in Europe. Some officials now forming foreign policy here were still in school when NATO was formed after the Communist putsch in Czechoslovakia in 1948.

The generation gap applies in foreign policy as it does in the home.

On April 7, the day after he won the Liberal leadership, Prime Minister Trudeau said Canada is not as important to Europe militarily as it was in the immediate post-war years.

He suggested that Canadian forces in Europe might be reduced and eventually withdrawn altogether, allowing Canada to concentrate more on North American defence.

Mr. Trudeau has never spelled out what he meant by concentration on continental defence.

LOOK AFTER HOME
But some informants say he was apparently speaking in the general sense that Canada must look after its home defence to a greater extent to prevent heavy U.S. pressure in this field.

In any event, the general assumption here has been that the government intends to withdraw militarily from Europe and that the Czech situation has postponed, not cancelled, this plan.

All of Canada's major allies in NATO — West Germany and Britain in particular — are urging this country not to pull out of Europe, particularly at this time.

Diplomats say the following arguments are being placed before Mr. Trudeau not only by allies but by some of his own advisers:

—It would be irresponsible for Canada to leave Europe at such a critical time.

—Europe might not be so interested in trade, cultural and other ties with Canada if this country left Europe in the lurch militarily.

—A Canadian withdrawal might trigger a relaxation by other countries, particularly the U.S.

The Canadian brigade, though small in numbers, is equal in equipment to a division, and the six-squadron air division represents a tremendous nuclear punch.

—The situation in Europe may become worse. There may be a leadership upheaval in Russia with an even tougher government emerging. There might be a revolt against the foreign policy as it does in the home.

Communists in East Germany. Would the West Germans stand idle while Russian tanks crushed East Germans?

—NATO is required not only to keep West Germany from becoming an independent power — all German forces now are under NATO command — but eventually to negotiate a German peace treaty.

—Russia does not plan to invade Europe. But a border incident could expand. Canadian forces are fully trained to help control a border incident; in other words, to prevent a conventional engagement from exploding into nuclear warfare.

—Canadian forces in Canada could not be brought into play in such a situation. They would have to be on the trouble spot in Europe.

—The last place war is likely to strike is North America. If it did, it would mean nuclear Armageddon.

Mr. Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Sharp have said Canada does not plan any unilateral action. It would make its decision in consultation with its allies.

Informed sources say they believe there now is a swing away from any immediate military withdrawal from Europe.

They say any action in this regard may be postponed for 12 to 18 months. After that, barring any further Czechoslovakias, a withdrawal could begin.

But gloomy diplomats see Russia sliding further back into the Stalin era — and more Czechoslovakias.

Mexican Capital Back To Normal

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's capital had a quiet night Thursday after three nights of battling between students and police, and a highly placed official predicted the army would withdraw from the University of Mexico campus within three days.

The official said it was expected that university rector Javier Barros Sierra would be able to obtain government concessions which would bring the 80,000 students back to classes from their two-month strike.

The violation of university autonomy by the entry of troops last week set off a wave of violence in which at least 15 persons were reported killed. The government has acknowledged five dead but says students could have carried away other bodies.

Student demands included disbanding of riot police, repeal of anti-subversion laws, indemnities for injured rioters and reaffirmation of university autonomy.

A spokesman for President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz said the government expects no great student problems during the Olympic Games starting Oct. 12 on the university campus. He said the government had received indications that any incidents would be isolated ones, fomented by hard-core agitators.

STOP-GO ANNIVERSARY
VANCOUVER (CP) — The traffic light celebrates its 46th anniversary this year. The British Columbia Automobile Association reports that in 1920, a Detroit policeman, William Potts, worked out an electric traffic light system which allowed him to control three intersections from one tower.

NEW PARKING LOT ON WATER STREET

This spanking new parking lot, adjacent to the Kelowna Yacht Club, was opened by the city Sept. 15. Previously an unpaved lot, widely used for free parking, the new lot has been designed to relieve parking pressures in the downtown area. About 100 spots are available at a cost of $5 per month, a city spokesman said. He added that a block of parking spaces has been set aside for people, mostly retired, who spend time fishing in Okanagan Lake. Construction on the lot began Sept. 1. (Courier photo)

Board Reminded Of Plans Stalled For KLO School

The trustees of School District 23 (Kelowna) skimmed through their business in record time at Thursday's meeting, then moved into closed committee session to discuss resolutions for a province-wide trustees meeting early next month. The board again heard one trustee warn that plans for proposed new secondary school on KLO Road have ground to a halt due to lack of government funds. T. R. Carter said the situation has not changed since the board learned the province had only granted $660,000 for the school, through public referendum, requested $1,160,000.

Mr. Carter quoted Premier W. A. C. Bennett as saying that as finance minister for the province, he would make more money available if the school boards need it. "I hope we can take him at his word," Mr. Carter commented. The school district's bus system, which has recently been under fire from several sources, is now "running smoothly," Trustee J. W. Maddock told the board.

He said the board is now operating about 20 buses, most of which are filled to capacity. "Whether we can maintain this I don't know," he said. "We may have to take a look at a new bus before very long." The board has heard no more from the Winfield-Oyama-Okanagan Chamber of Commerce which several weeks ago accused the board of "neglecting" the Winfield area in its bus service. The trustees decided they would probably extend bus service there if the area would provide accurate figures and maps of the need. No answer has been received to a board letter sent out last week, Secretary-treasurer Fred Macklin said Thursday.

Well-Known City Woman Dies In U.S.

A woman who devoted most of her life to nursing and was a member of 11 Kelowna organizations died in Seattle recently. Elizabeth Rose Deans, who came here in 1921, served overseas in 1914-18 with Queen Alexandra's Imperial Nursing Service and achieved the rank of captain.

She graduated as an RN from Westminster Hospital, London, England. Mrs. Deans was a member of the Women's Institute, the Guide Association, was a charter member of the Jack McMillan chapter of the IOOE, on the executive of the Canadian Council of Women, a member of the Hospital Auxiliary, the Nurses Association, the Altar Guild of St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church, the Red Cross, Unemployment Insurance Committee and served on an education committee.

Funeral services for Mrs. Deans were held from St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church at 2 p.m. Thursday with Rev. R. E. F. Berry and the Rev. K. B. Howes officiating. Mrs. Deans is survived by her husband Bruce, one son Dr. Donald Deans of Seattle, and one daughter Noel (Mrs. G. Workman) of Montreal, six grandchildren and one brother also survive.

THE VALLEY SCENE

Kelowna was beset with high winds overnight which turned Okanagan Lake into an angry, white-capped grey color and had pedestrians holding down their hats. An electric storm passed briefly over the city and resulted in a momentary power loss in at least one district. No serious damage has been reported as a result of the inclement weather.

The Peach Festival committee. The event included home-made wine competitions and fresh grape competitions open to Valley residents. The festa is in the Peach Bowl.

The board feels the present tax notices, which lump the school assessment and library tax under one heading, gives an unrealistic idea of how much tax the schools are actually levying. The library fees, services come under the heading of "education." In Kelowna, the school tax amounts to about 32 mills, with the library tax adding just over one mill more.

GRADUATES

Constable R. J. McEwen, son of Mrs. Barbara McEwen, 975 Bernard Ave., recently completed recruitment training with the RCMP at the Mynarck Park training centre, near Red Deer, Alta. His first posting will be in Alberta. Constable McEwen joined the force March 12.

Fall And Winter Library Films Start Wednesday

The Okanagan Regional Library begins its fall and winter schedule of documentary film presentations at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the board room of the library. The first program will include three films: "The Canadians," a social history of life in Canada tracing the evolution of the country through its migrants; "Land of the Overlanders," a documentary on the daring settlers who travelled in to B.C. by raft on the North Thompson River; "Australia's Coral Wonderland," a look at the wide variety and color of marine life in the tropical waters of Australia. Admission to the films is free, but there will be a silver collection taken.

Death Of Child Ruled Accidental

A coroner's jury decided Thursday that the death of a two-year-old boy, Robert Stump, in Golden was accidental. The child died of head injuries in hospital in Calgary after a fall from his crib. The son of Kelowna parents, Robert Stump was brought to this city for burial, but was later exhumed for autopsy. The parents refused to allow a post mortem examination. Three witnesses testified at the inquest, presided over by Coroner D. M. White. They were a social welfare nurse, an RCMP officer and a youth that had talked to the deceased child shortly before his death. After deliberating for about 40 minutes, the jury told the inquest the death was accidental due to a fall from the child's crib.

FALSE ALARM
The Kelowna Fire Brigade sent their trucks racing to Kelowna General Hospital early to investigate the second false alarm in two days. The alarm was set off at 7:30 a.m. Thursday at 8 a.m. Fire fighters said both alarms originated from the hospital's psychiatric ward.

Shuswap Waters Can Supply Need

The water resources of the Shuswap River are adequate to supply the area's current and future needs, while still allowing the proposed Shuswap-Okanagan canal and maintaining an adequate residual flow for non-consumptive purposes. Valther Raudsepp, water investigation branch, B.C. Water Resources Service, Victoria, made these remarks in a talk Wednesday to those attending a dinner meeting in Rutland of the Okanagan-Similkameen Associated Chambers of Commerce.

The speaker said the maximum reduction the level of Little Shuswap Lake would be 1.4 feet, and would occur when the lake was above its average elevation.

OUTLINES PLAN
Mr. Raudsepp, who works with the department of lands, forests and water resources, gave a comprehensive outline of the proposed Shuswap River diversion.

Attending the quarterly meeting were business and professional men and fruit growers from the Central and Southern Okanagan and Similkameen. The work of the water investigation branch was to determine if a canal from the Shuswap River to Okanagan Lake could augment the Okanagan Lake inflow in drought years and supply water to the north end of the Valley and the Enderby area.

During the past 42 years the net annual inflow of water into Okanagan Lake varied between 80,000 and 630,000 acre-feet. Records indicate in 25 per cent

Locals Will Seek Talks On Their Own Immediately

An attempt to negotiate a master agreement covering employees of 13 Okanagan municipalities has failed. A decision of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, made in Kelowna Thursday, brought to an end, the area negotiating which began in January. Had negotiations succeeded, the master contract would have been the first of its kind in Canada.

When early negotiations failed, a conciliation board hearing was held in Kelowna in July and the board's report was presented Aug. 2. The municipalities accepted the report, but the union turned it down. Meetings were resumed in Kelowna Monday when the union suggested, as the basis of negotiations, there be no worsening of existing conditions and benefits.

The municipalities took the stand they would not have their hands tied before negotiations began. Tuesday municipal workers in Vernon went on strike.

Wednesday R. S. S. Wilson, chairman, Okanagan Mainline Municipal Association negotiating committee, warned the union, a return to local agreements and local bargaining might be necessary.

Thursday talks were resumed at 10 a.m. and the union asked for an indefinite adjournment at 11 a.m. The union bargaining committee met in the afternoon when the decision to cancel regional bargaining was made.

Following is the text of the telegram sent to the mayors of 13 municipalities and the minister of labor.

An Old Fashioned Verdict At Rotary Panel Meeting

Defining a problem is usually easier than prescribing a cure but sometimes a home remedy is the only solution. A panel discussion at the regular meeting of the Capri East Rotary Club Thursday night turned in this old fashioned verdict to a dynamic problem, student unrest and the discontent of youth.

LIVELY
A lively discussion had Rotary members throwing in their verbal contributions. Peter McLoughlin handled them all besides posing questions to his panel: RCMP Cpl. Ron Pollard, Rev. Elliott Birdsal, and Magistrate Collver. Don White, and Ross Collier of Kelowna and Pentiction respectively.

The group disagreed on some questions but were willing to concede that like charity the problems of youth begin at home. Rev. Birdsal said some parents are more interested in making a fast buck than knowing their own youngsters. "We don't realize how incomepetent and helpless some parents are," said Magistrate Collver. "But the hope is in the family and the problem is how to create better parents," he said. "Too many parents expect the children to get at school what they don't get at home."

ON JUVENILES
Cpl. Pollard said that in most cases of juvenile delinquency when the youth is brought in for an offence the parents cannot be contacted. They may be at a beer parlor or at a club. He admitted there are problems with some juveniles in Kelowna but it is usually caused by a minority about two to 10.

Rev. Birdsal, representing perhaps a more liberal view than most members of the panel attributed student unrest to a generation which wants a greater say in decisions which could ultimately shape their lives. He said the conservative element opposes the birth of a new world civilization complete with new values to replace the old ones. "We are contaminated with values 400 years old," he said.

Youth's frustration with the slowness of change is evident in unrest and disorder. Student unrest is directed at the whole system said Magistrate Collver. "They don't see us doing anything to change our way of life so they protest," he said.

He disagreed with Magistrate White's suggestion that people are protesting for the sake of protesting. "In a lot of the protesting they are reacting against something specific and want greater participation in how universities are run."

He suggested there was a difference between protest and lawlessness since the former is directed at correcting an injustice.

Community Chest Campaign Ready To Blast Off Monday

Dominus three and counting for the Monday blast off. The Central Okanagan Community Chest is still in the launching stage but Monty Cordingley reports from the control room all systems are go, Roger over and out.

For most of the thirty odd volunteers, who will swing into action next week October is a busy time of year, and Glenn Lawrence, chairman of the commercial and industrial division, is no exception.

Already he and his staff have been busy making phone calls and doing pre-campaign work. Mr. Lawrence is a department store manager but during October this job with the campaign becomes almost a full-time job.

Firms will be contacted Monday through Friday and organizers feel this part of the campaign could be completed by the weekend.

Each year firms and businesses outside the province contribute to the annual quota. Although Mr. Lawrence plays a large part in the overall drive he is but one of many community oriented individuals to step into the breach and fill a key role.

A recent and valuable addition to the task force is John Skelton, a Kelowna banker. Mr. Skelton has volunteered his time and experience to assist Bill Finley with the employees section of United Appeal.

The employees division contacts all employees in the Central Okanagan explaining ways they can contribute. Volunteers will contact employees from Winfield to Westbank describing the benefits 16 members agencies derive from United Appeal.

One of the most popular of four ways the employee can give is through the payroll deduction. By instructing an accountant a contributor can have the donation spread over 10 months. Another method is the bank pledge which is spread over the same period in a monthly basis at no extra cost.

Post dated pledges are appreciated and cash is always accepted. Door-to-door canvassing starts Oct. 15.

The communities mentioned have generally volunteered adequate park facilities or organized recreation within their boundaries. In addition, the British Columbia department of recreation and conservation has developed a number of highways along Highway 97 as well as community lakeshore parks at Lakeview Heights, Westbank and Naramata. This development of provincial government camp and picnic sites and community parks for the unorganized territories is to be commended.

The Okanagan Similkameen Parks Society has sent a brief to Kenneth Kiernan, minister of recreation and conservation, recommending that the region including Okanagan Mountain, Squally Point and other Okanagan lakeshore, be set aside as a class "A" provincial park.

The area lies within less than 15 miles of both Kelowna and Pentiction. "An opportunity to set aside a major park area so close to large recreation areas is one that must not be overlooked in a region where suburban strip development will overrun, in a few years, all the open land between the major cities," the brief says.

"The area is characterized by typical Okanagan landscape with rugged scenic canyons and lakes suitable for hiking, camping, and fishing. The lakeshore beaches are extremely attractive for boating, swimming and picnicking. The native flora of the semi-arid mountain slopes are extremely fragile and require the protection offered by park status to ensure their existence as well as that of the native animals dependent upon them."

"Just off Squally Point is the home of the famed monster Ogopogo and this 'legendary' beast adds to the charm of this valuable recreation area."

"The Parks Society has received a favorable reply from Mr. Kiernan on the proposed park and to quote his letter in part: 'The Parks Branch is familiar with this area and will be requested to make a report on the area. We appreciate your taking the time and doing the work required to complete this brief as it provides us with local information which otherwise we might not have available to us.'"

This area has been recommended by numerous individuals and groups for many years and should be set aside as a park as soon as possible for the benefit of all people, both present and future. Following is the complete brief.

SUNNY weather is forecast for the Okanagan Saturday.

Little change in temperature is expected, winds north 15 to day and light Saturday.

Today should be mostly cloudy becoming sunny this afternoon, mostly sunny Saturday. The low tonight and high Saturday should be 38 and 72.

The low and high recorded in Kelowna Thursday were 51 and 69 compared with 48 and 73 on the same date a year ago.

CLOSE TO KELOWNA

Class 'A' Park Sought For Okanagan

The Okanagan Similkameen Parks Society proposes that in addition to the areas already set aside for public recreation use there should be an immediate reserve placed on the remaining lakeshore, and approximately 25 square miles of adjacent Crown land in the Squally Point-Okanagan Mountain area. "This area includes the remaining approximately five miles of uncommitted Crown-owned lakeshore. The remaining 70 miles of shoreline south of Okanagan Lake Bridge is either privately owned, road allowance, city or provincial park. The rugged scenery of Wild Horse Canyon and Okanagan Mountain, at present accessible only by jeep road or trail, lies within less than 15 miles of the city centre of both Kelowna and Pentiction. An opportunity to set aside a major park area so close to large residential and tourist centres is one that must not be overlooked in a region where suburban strip development will overrun, in a few years, all the open land between the major cities."

"The whole proposed area contains little commercial timber, having been logged years ago. Cattle graze throughout most of the area on scattered patches of land, but it is not considered a major grazing area. "In conclusion, there is an excellent opportunity to set an immediate reserve on the land with the object of establishing in this region of rapid population growth and heavy tourist travel. This park would provide a large wilderness recreational area within less than 15 miles of the centre of the two major cities in the south Okanagan. Acquisition of the two privately owned parcels of waterfront would provide excellent marine campsites for the more than 2,000 registered boats in the area, as well as bringing a further tourist attraction to this region. Development of access roads to the edges of present wilderness area is possible to a limited extent without major expense. Further development could follow a few years, all the open land as required."

Premier Johnson's Death Creates New Problems

The sudden death on Thursday of Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec came as a shock to most Canadians, many of whom had listened to him in a TV interview following his first public appearance Wednesday since his illness.

Mr. Johnson's death poses new questions for Canada. It does, of course, end the personal feud between him and Prime Minister Trudeau and, hopefully, it may be that Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Johnson's successor may be able to start off in a more congenial atmosphere than that which has existed between Ottawa and Quebec in recent months.

In the other hand, while many and perhaps most Canadians resented many of Mr. Johnson's viewpoints and policies, Mr. Johnson has appeared to be one of the more moderate activists in the Quebec political scene. The big question now is who will be his successor and what will his attitudes be.

While Mr. Johnson was absent in Bermuda after his July heart attack, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, 52-year-old justice minister, was acting premier. He had been Mr. Johnson's close rival for the Union Nationale leadership at a party convention at Quebec in 1961. He remains a front-runner among candidates for the succession of Mr. Johnson, if he chooses.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, 43, also has been mentioned. He sits in the legislative council, the provincial Upper House, to which he was appointed last year. He had been dean of the law faculty at the University of Montreal.

Also mentioned is Mario Beaulieu, 40, recently appointed director of the Union Nationale party. Formerly he was Premier Johnson's executive assistant but he is not a legislature member and, presumably, could be chosen only at a party convention.

The nature of the Union Nationale's relations with the federal authorities—as well as with France—will remain as uncertain as the party's leadership following Mr. Johnson's death. No one will know what precise direction they will take until a temporary or a permanent leader is picked. Individual members of the Union Nationale cabinet do not appear to be unanimous about the details of such policies.

Mr. Bertrand's expressed attitudes are not as headline-making as Mr. Johnson's were. He is considered in favor of a Quebec administration strong in areas of provincial jurisdiction and having strong cultural links with France. These areas of strength would be achieved by negotiations.

Mr. Cardinal is a newcomer to provincial politics but his views are considered to be more radical than those of Mr. Bertrand. The fact that he sits in the legislative council and cannot participate in legislative assembly debate leaves some mystery about his attitudes.

Mr. Beaulieu is considered to have good organizational ability, but his views on policy have seldom been expressed in public.

In the coming weeks Canadian eyes will be generally focused on events in Quebec.

Hong Kong Has Many Facets And Is Also Quite A Riddle

HONG KONG (AP) — Twenty-five miles north of Hong Kong's central business district lies the 17-mile border line that separates this farthest outpost of the British Commonwealth from Mao Tse-tung's China.

It is the gate through which a part of China's commerce travels. For some it is the gate to freedom. It is the vantage point from which the non-Communist observes China and vice-versa. It is often the scene of a unique form of diplomacy. It is a front line of defence. In many ways it is a riddle.

Lowu is the official frontier crossing point.

Diplomats travelling to and from Peking, businessmen from countries trading with China, overseas Chinese visiting the home of their ancestors, correspondents and students are the people who cross at Lowu daily.

For the British, indeed the Western world, the border provides an important watching post.

The border stations that stretch from Lowu to Sha Tau Kok are equipped with soldiers, armaments and watching devices.

WATCH THE OTHER

From high vantage points and at lower levels, the British Army engages in the monotony of daily staring contests with its counterpart on the other side of the border.

A unique diplomacy is practised at the border.

At Lowu, Man Kam To and Sha Tau Kok each side of the border maintains loudspeakers, used mostly by the Communists to shout "Mao think" for the benefit of Hong Kong "compatriots." The propaganda is tolerated to the extent that "such broadcasts are not inflammatory."

The more powerful British speakers can easily drown out Chinese propaganda broadcasts with martial music or simple static.

The frontier also is the gate to freedom for thousands of Chinese who yearly seek to flee China.

Police arrested approximately 1,700 illegal refugees last year and in the first six months of this year 2,000 were arrested.

Authorities estimate the number arrested ranges from a third to half of the illegal immigrants who eventually make their way to Hong Kong by boat, over land and even by swimming.

NUMBER DROPS

The Hong Kong government agrees to take 50 immigrants from China each day, but last year the average number coming across was only five and this year the average so far has been two a day.

So while the government is not necessarily pushing to fill its quota—approximately 18,000 a year—it is prepared to handle the influx of illegal refugees because of the low number of persons immigrating legally.

The government here will not comment on what happens to the refugees once they arrived in Hong Kong, but it is commonly believed that the large majority of those who make their way across are never forced to return to China.

The Fifth Disease Once Was Measles

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

What is the Fifth Disease? What does one do to cure it? Should a child with it be allowed to attend school and expose others? Doctors in my home town do not seem to know much about it.—Mrs. W.W.

They probably know as much about it as anyone else—which isn't much but is enough for the needs.

Fifth disease, also known as Hungarian measles, is one of a group of diseases that involve a rash—regular measles, scarlet fever, roseola, infantum, and finally Fifth Disease.

In earlier days it was not realized that there were quite so many similar diseases. Probably this was responsible for the contention that some people had measles two or three times.

Actually it is rare to have measles more than once, but in the older days if something came along involving a measles-like rash, it was called measles. Now finer distinctions are made.

There isn't much to be done in treating Fifth Disease except to keep the child quiet and keep down any fever, itching or other discomfort. If they are bothersome.

No, a child with Fifth Disease should not be allowed to attend school, both to avoid giving the ailment to other children and for his own sake. It isn't a serious disease, but like other childhood diseases it deserves sufficient care and attention to minimize the risk of relapses or complications.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a problem about which I am rather sensitive. I am quite hirsute and since the hair is so profuse and dark I am somewhat embarrassed to be seen without a shirt.

I have a steady girl friend whom I like very much but I haven't discussed my concern with her. I'm sure other young men have this same problem.

I have heard about electrolysis treatments, but this is probably quite expensive and impractical. Is there anything you might recommend?—S.B.

My advice would be to ask your girl to go swimming—it's still warm down where you live. Could be that she, like many girls, will admire the masculinity of your hairy chest. Then you can stop worrying about it.

Yes, electrolysis would be a long and tedious and therefore expensive process. In such a case, it is practical mainly in small areas, such as a lip or part of the face, particularly for women.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 10 and for about 15 years have been getting tanned each summer. The last couple of years I've noticed white spots, especially on my arms and legs. The darker I tan, the more spots appear. They turn the more I tan.

Can anything be done to prevent this? Is it a "warning" that I should stay out of the sun?—Mrs. S.G.

In your case, this should be a warning. These spots may be areas of vitiligo, wherein the skin pigments lose their response to tanning.

If you persist in tanning, all I can suggest is the use of special cosmetics to cover the light spots. There is no way to guarantee whether, either with or without treatment, these spots will regain the power to tan.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that petit mal epilepsy goes away with adulthood—that is, that one who has had petit mal needn't be considered an epileptic. Is this so?—A.L.

Seaweed Just One Project

HALIFAX (CP) — The cultivation of seaweed is just one of the research projects being carried out here by the Atlantic Regional Laboratory.

Dr. Arthur Neish, director of the lab, said many of the seaweed plants being used commercially are taken from wild fields, and have not been cultivated.

The lab hopes to determine the plant's life cycles and where a cultivated station would best accommodate them most economically.

Dr. Neish said that the ARL conducts research into many unrelated fields such as moulds.

He said the study is to determine whether or not the toxic compounds produced by moulds are responsible for poor growth of sheep whose pastures appear to be in good condition.

He said this problem is common in New Zealand which has a large lamb yield, and microbiologists now are checking to see whether a similar condition exists in Nova Scotia.

In still another field, Dr. Neish said a group of scientists are studying chemical reactions at high temperatures, similar to those which occur in steel manufacture.

A study of slugs, which are composed to a large extent of silicates, has led to considerable development in silicate chemistry, which may help the glass-making industry, Dr. Neish said.

He added that the lab is also looking into the chemical reaction of drugs on the nervous system. There was a need for better understanding of the relation between the drug and their effect on human behavior.

OTTAWA REPORT

Trudeau Muffles Words On 'Hill'

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

Will the well-equipped parliamentary journalist be compelled to carry a whisper microphone and electronic bugs?

You will have noticed that there was a famine of news on Parliament Hill in the 11 weeks between the election and the opening of the new parliament. That was caused by the Trudeau rideau, or curtain, reimposing the lapsed total secrecy upon cabinet.

Then Prime Minister Trudeau addressed the first caucus of Liberal senators and MPs in the new parliament. He warned his supporters to preserve caucus secrecy, and never to repeat to outsiders what had taken place behind its locked doors; thus, he said, the Liberal parliamentarians would feel free to discuss political and parliamentary topics frankly, and to express their own opinions honestly.

POLITICS ARE PUBLIC

Total secrecy is deplored here on many grounds. In a democracy, the public have the right to be told about the facts, and thus to be able to discuss and form opinions about the great issues. It is argued here with good reason that the public House of Commons, not the secret caucus is the place where MPs opinions and differences should be aired freely, frankly and openly. By ringing down a curtain of secrecy around the differences within the government and its party supporters, the public is being deprived of its essential right to know; and, one might add, the government is deprived of the valuable public reaction.

If the views of individual MPs are hidden, they are all made to appear like rubber stamps. Even their constituents, some Liberals complain, are deprived of the explanation that their local MP fought for their interests, even though these clash with government policy.

Experienced and able members of the press gallery here have become angry and suspicious. But it will be on the shoulders of such that the responsibility lies for penetrating that rideau, and informing the public.

In the latter days of the Pearson cabinet, it and the Liberal caucus both lived in a goldfish bowl, with their deliberations constantly revealed to all. Judy LaMarsh's quick tongue found the apt comment that they "leaked like a sieve". But many of those leaks were the result of the contradictory situation in which several men were compelled to play simultaneously two incompatible roles, as ministers in a cabinet pledged to solidarity and as candidates seeking to be esteemed higher than their rivals for the leadership of their party. Yet those leaks did not handicap the workings of government; they were embarrassed it by exposing its errors and weaknesses, and did not hurt the party in the ensuing election.

PUBLIC TO BE INVOLVED

As if contradicting his own curtain of secrecy, Trudeau has promised to "plug the people in on the decision-making process."

And he told the House of Commons why: "We have all had occasion to observe recently the heartening phenomenon in Canada of widespread involvement in political activities by many segments of the community which until now were detached. Like it or not, we in this House bear a heavy responsibility for promoting healthy involvement and for discouraging unhealthy alienation. We discharge that responsibility through our activities here by projecting throughout this land an image of a parliament aware of its responsibilities."

Those are not the words of a government leader who wishes to keep the people in the dark as to his policies and plans. Indeed, it could be argued that he deserves greater publicity than has been given to some key new policies, of which only the edge was exposed in the Throne Speech and in his own recent statements. It would be heartening overburdened taxpayers, for instance, to know more of his intention to curb the built-in swelling of government expenditure on some existing programs.

CANADA'S STORY

Nelson Fell In Love For Quebec Beauty

By BOB BOWMAN

Everybody knows the story about Admiral Nelson's falling in love with the daughter of the Earl of Mordaunt. He held his telescope to his blind eye so he could not see the signal. Nelson's other eye was very good, not only in battle, but also to see attractive ladies. His love affair with Lady Hamilton is almost as well-known as his action at Trafalgar.

However, one story about Nelson is little-known, and that is about his visit to Quebec in 1782. He was captain of the Royal Navy frigate Albatross, which was raiding the coastal villages of Nova Scotia during the American Revolutionary War.

After months at sea the Albatross needed a refit so Nelson put into Quebec where he spent the entire month of September. It was one of the most beautiful months of the year in Quebec because the leaves of the trees are changing to their brilliant autumn colors. Nelson was a young man and fell in love with Mary Simpson, sixteen-year-old daughter of the Provost Marshal of the Garrison. He was determined to marry her before he had to go to sea again, but his friends felt that a marriage to a relatively penniless Canadian girl would harm his career. They tried to talk him out of it and there were some tempestuous scenes.

Nelson would not change his mind, and it is believed that his friends warned the Admiralty what was going on. In any event, Nelson received orders to sail before his marriage could be arranged. There is a story that he had to be tricked into going on board his ship.

Nelson never did get back to Canada, or see Mary Simpson again. It was too bad that a Canadian girl could not have become Mrs. Admiral Nelson! Incidentally, he had both his eyes when he was at Quebec. He lost one of them in action 12 years later.

Artificial Marijuana Dreaded As Baffling To Customs Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new cloud of worry is swirling over marijuana.

The concern is whether underground chemists will succeed in making synthetic or artificial marijuana. If they do, then a few drops of the liquid "pot" could transform an ordinary cigarette into a potent reefer.

Such altered cigarettes might easily pass inspection. Smugglers and pushers might find dozens of new tricks for transporting the concentrated chemical.

American and Israeli chemists a few years ago discovered practical ways to synthesize the active ingredients of marijuana—chemicals known as tetrahydrocannabinols, or THC.

In normal scientific fashion, they published their findings. Some THC now is being made for legitimate research studies to pin down more knowledge about the psychological and health effects of marijuana, including any effects from using it regularly for long periods of time.

POLICE RAID LABS

Federal agents have already "busted" several illegal laboratories where they found some of the starting chemicals with which to make THC, and literature about the process, says John F. Enders, assistant director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

"We don't know if illegal THC will become a serious problem," Enders adds. "The raw materials for it are neither easy to make, or to find. But the underground press is looking for supplies. If underground chemists feel they can make money on it, and not get caught, they'll try to turn it out."

In a counter-move, Attorney General Ramsey Clark on July signed a proposal to make illegal manufacture or sale of THC a federal offense, punishable by a year in prison or $1,000 fine or both.

He acted under the Drug Abuse Control Amendments of 1965. Unless there is objection, the final order covering illegal THC would take effect early in October.

In tests with human volunteers, THC has produced effects such as those from natural marijuana. On low doses, volunteers said they felt happy, giddy, silly, relaxed. On higher doses, some saw colors as being brighter, or felt their bodies become lighter. On still higher doses, most volunteers had illusions, delusions or hallucinations. THC was found to be 20 times more potent when smoked than when swallowed.

Synthetic THC might be produced illegally in pure extracts or as a kind of larry substance that could be dissolved in alcohol or other solvents, says Fred G. Field, a chemist and deputy to Enders.

Short Takes

In the recent "spy case" debate in the House of Commons, we find ourselves listed as supporting the position of Robert Stanfield and opposing that of the government. Mr. Stanfield wants the facts of the case made public; the government says no, taking the position that it would "not be in the public interest to prosecute and put the facts on the open record." Surely, if a civil servant is caught trying to sell confidential records to a foreign power, it is in the interests of the public to be so informed. If the case is serious enough to force dismissal of the civil servant, surely the public has a right to know. Conversely, if the details are kept secret, how does the public know that the accused has not been unfairly charged and even persecuted? In the interest of the public and in the interests of the man himself, the details should be made public.

We find it very difficult to understand why the city council announced its sewerage program on Monday and called a public meeting to discuss the matter on Wednesday night. Council made quite a point of the distribution of information to every householder in town, but this circular did not reach many before the meeting and only reached a good many Wednesday afternoon, not long enough before to be studied. As of Wednesday noon, no circular from the city had reached either the Courier office or the home of this writer. The city has had these sewerage plans in the fire for the better part of a year. Another week surely would not have affected the implementation of the plans that much. At least a week should have been allowed between the distribution of the circulars and the holding of a public meeting—enough time for the public to digest the proposition and discuss it with others. Half a day or less is much too short a time and leaves the impression of "railroading"—which we do not think the city intended.

The owners of big-league sports attractions are so hungry for the fans' money that September sees the baseball world series not yet begun and the football teams already heading into their mid-season slumps while in hockey the pre-season games are being played.

While it will not be officially open until October 26th, the new Kelowna airport terminal, becomes operational on Tuesday, October 1. Having had a preview, we think Kelownians will be proud of their new facility. It probably will not be entirely spic and span until the official opening, but we would suggest that a visit on that day could be pleasant and rewarding. While utilitarian, it is in good taste and actually downright attractive.

This coming season, if the experts have their way, Canadian males will go completely hogwild on color. Reports Men's Wear of Canada. If it's eye-catching and shimmers like a peacock's plume, you're in. Gone is the dull suit worn with the ubiquitous white shirt. Gray shirts, blue shirts, fawn, deep brown, pink and even purple shirts for morning, noon and non-formal evening wear will be the thing during the coming months. It may soon be commonplace to appear in a pink four-button, double-breasted jacket, blue twill slacks, white striped shirt and pale red tie. You, that is, not me. Brilliance and variety of colors and styles of men's suitings and sports jackets are now being favored by Canadians. The drab, charcoal gray look is on the way out, if you're going to make the best-dressed men's list.

Winery Spent $100,000 In Anti-Pollution Fight

KELOWNA — Calona Wines Limited, the largest winery in British Columbia, has spent $100,000 in the past three years to ensure that fruit wastes will not cause a pollution problem in Okanagan Lake.

The company's executive director, T. A. Capozzi, says a three-point program to purify plant effluent has resulted in 98 per cent removal of causes of pollution from the company's waste products. The company has been co-operating with the City of Kelowna in combating the pollution problem in Okanagan Lake.

Calona uses 10,000,000 gallons of water a year for cooling and washing purposes in connection with its annual production of 2,000,000 gallons of wine. The problem has been to keep waste products out of this water before it is released in the lake.

First step was the installation of two Padovan Lees Filters, costing $25,000 each, which filter all of the solids out of wine lees, or dregs, leaving a solid cake which is hauled to the city dump. The clarified liquid is then distilled in the company's new distillery, producing valuable fruit spirits.

Cost of installing the filters plus necessary changes needed to accommodate them brought the total expenditure to $100,000.

SPILLAGE POSER

The company has also tackled the spillage problem in the plant where spilled wine formerly went into the storm sewers and into the lake. This was done by installing three catch basins and a dehydrator which removes all solids from the liquid passing through it.

"The whole process has been tightened up to eliminate even the slightest entry of fruit wastes into the lake," says Winemaker Bill Finley.

One of the biggest problems in Okanagan Lake has been the danger of algae forming through enrichment or eutrophication of the water by nitrates and phosphates, mainly from detergents.

"To combat this, Calona plans to use bio-degradable detergents in future which contain no phosphates," says Mr. Capozzi. "Since these cost twice as much as detergent containing phosphates, and since we use a lot of detergent for sterilizing pipelines and equipment, this will mean an extra cost to us."

Finally, the company is considering eliminating the use of cooling water by installation of a giant refrigerator system, with cooling coils in each of its 51 fermenting tanks.

This would recirculate cooling water and result in much less effluent as well as a much lower consumption of water.

Last Day Of Daniel Johnson Was Rugged 19-Hours Long

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson's last day was a rugged 19-hours long, but his private secretary says he went to bed as "one of the happiest guys in the world."

He rose at 7:30 a.m., Wednesday in the suite he occupied at the Chateau Frontenac Hotel, had breakfast, read the newspapers and had his hair trimmed for his televised news conference at 11.

At the CBC television studios in suburban St. Foy, where the news conference was held, Mr. Johnson was greeted by more than 500 striking employees of the Quebec Liquor Board.

Protected by a 15-man provincial police contingent, including his husky personal bodyguard, he stroled through the pressing crowd of demonstrators to enter the building.

"Don't believe those stories that he was hit by the strikers," his bodyguard said. "Nobody got a hand on him."

WAS ON TIME

He stroled into the studio at exactly 11 a.m., a rare treat for reporters accustomed to seeing the premier 30 and more minutes late for scheduled conferences.

He was beaming, he looked fit and tanned after his holiday in Bermuda where he spent the final weeks of a 12 week convalescence following a mild heart attack July 3.

"It is really pleasant to be back home, back to work," he said in English, then added in French: "I must tell you that after such an experience you become more human."

For the next hour, he was in excellent form, defending his government's relations with France, criticizing Ottawa, and ensuring English-speaking Quebecers their language rights would be respected.

"It was a great personal success for him," said Paul Chouinard, the premier's private secretary. "He received telegrams of congratulations from people of different political tendencies from all across the country."

INTERVIEWS NEXT

The hour-long news conference was followed by another hour of interviews with radio and television stations.

At 3:30 p.m., he boarded a DC-3 for the flight to Manicouagan, scene of a power project 250 miles northeast of the capital. He rode over the dam site in the pilot's cabin to get a better view.

"He was relaxed during the airplane ride," said Paul Gros d'Allion, a close personal friend who had worked with Mr. Johnson throughout his term as Union Nationale leader.

Mr. Chouinard said the premier was "very, very jolly."

"He was pleased with the press conference," he said. "He was one of the happiest guys in the world."

At Manicouagan, the power project is known, Mr. Johnson was soon joking with a couple of old political foes, former premier Jean Lesage and Separatist leader Rene Levesque.

POSE TOGETHER

When a photographer asked the three to pose together, Mr. Gros d'Allion said, Rene Levesque "didn't appear too enthusiastic," but the three men were brought together. Mr. Johnson coupled the hands of Mr. Lesage and Mr. Levesque in his own and interpreted the gesture as symbolic of unity of all political forces in Quebec by saying: "We must be united."

He attended a cocktail party and presided at the head of a dinner before heading to his lodgings at 11:30 p.m., he went to sleep around 12:30 p.m.

His last words in public overheard by reporters were: "I am going to continue to work hard and for that reason I now am going to bed."

He was found dead in bed at 7:15 a.m., by Mr. Chouinard, who said the premier didn't feel that Wednesday's schedule was too burdensome for a man with cardiac problems.

So you think you can't afford a home?

Quite rightly, you want a complete family home, with adequate privacy and all the amenities of modern living. In spite of rising materials and labor costs, can such a home be built at a cost you can afford? Westwood's new Suburban Series proves that it can. By eliminating waste and duplication, by avoiding complicated exterior walls and roof lines, and other important design economies, we have produced more house for your building dollar. Yet in size and appearance these homes compare favorably with many in the higher priced field. Westwood Suburban homes are component-built. Erection is speeded, on-site labor reduced. You save weeks, sometimes months in building time. Since we introduced them last spring, scores of B.C. families have chosen Suburban homes and sales have exceeded all expectations. Paris Meeting Will Go On PARIS (AP) — The United States has no intention of breaking off the peace talks with North Vietnam, U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said today. He added that Hanoi also has given no indication of wanting to stop talking.

The chief U.S. delegate to the 20-week-old discussions met again today with North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy for the conference's 23rd session.

As Harriman arrived for the session, reporters asked him about suggestions that the conference be recessed until a new American president is installed in January. Such suggestions were made after a prominent neutral Western diplomat, in touch with both the Americans and the North Vietnamese, said no advance in the Paris talks seems likely until a new U.S. administration takes office.

Harriman observed: "Hanoi has not indicated they have any intention of doing so."

Priests Destroy Draft Cards

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fourteen persons, including five Roman Catholic priests, were arrested after the destruction of thousands of draft records seized from a selective service office.

The 14 sang, prayed and waited for arrest while the flames ate at the piles of paper they carried in burlap sacks from the office building to a park across the street.

Their action was designed to prevent induction for 27,000 draft eligibles.

Col. Bentley Courtenay, Wisconsin selective service director, said inductions probably will not be prevented or delayed.

At the British Columbia Convention of the Minor Hockey League held at Capri last weekend, Kelowna's usual warm hospitality was extended to the ladies by the League's Ladies' Auxiliary.

On Friday evening the visiting ladies were guests at a sherry party following their registration at Capri, and on Saturday morning and afternoon they were taken on tours of interesting establishments in the district.

Saturday evening a fashion show was held in honor of the visitors at St. David's Church Hall, and commentators for the evening were Miss Colleen Gordon and Mrs. Bev. Dallman. Modelling the pretty fall clothes and the latest hair styles were Miss Marina Maundrell, Miss Val Paul, Miss Linda Fenton, Mrs. William Di Pasquale, Mrs. Norman Kendall, Mrs. Frank Richardson and Mrs. Harold Greenbough.

Kelowna golfers who attended the Kelowna Ladies' Sweepstakes on Saturday were Mrs. John Campbell, who won the low gross; Mrs. A. S. Underhill, who won the putting, and Mrs. M. A. Anthony.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. MacDonald, Okanagan Mission, this week are Dr. and Mrs. William Locke, from Badenham, Hereford, England.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Parkes have returned from a two week holiday in Calgary where they visited their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harker returned to their home in Vancouver Tuesday having spent the summer months in Kelowna.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. A. Easterbrook returned home Monday from the coast where they had spent a few days visiting friends in Vancouver and Victoria.

Spending a few days in Kelowna with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Long is Mr. Long's mother, Mrs. Walter Watson from Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Doyle from Calgary have been enjoying a golfing holiday at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club this week.

Four Valley Brides-Elect Are Honored At Showers

Miss Jeannette Robertshaw, whose marriage to Joseph Bonbons will take place on Oct. 12, was the guest of honor at a delightful shower held recently at the home of Mrs. Terry Harding.

Co-hostess of the shower was Mrs. Robert Parfitt, and on arrival the bride-elect and her mother were presented with charming corsages of pink and white carnations.

The many lovely and useful gifts from the 18 guests present were presented to Miss Robertshaw in a model plane made by Mr. Harding, in reference to the groom's work with CPA, and after the gifts were opened, wine and refreshments were served by Miss Karen Harding, Miss Terri Anne Harding, and Mrs. Ernest Pounder.

September bride-elect Miss Jean Heptun was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower on Sept. 18, held at the home of Mrs. Ben Selzer in East Kelowna, whose daughter, Miss Ramona Selzer was the co-hostess. Yellow streamers decorated the chair of honor, and a large box containing the gifts was also decorated with crepe paper flowers in shades of yellow.

After the hostess had said a few introductory words about Miss Heptun the bride-elect opened her many lovely and useful gifts assisted by Miss Jean Philpott, and after they had been passed around for the guests to view, she thanked the 14 guests present and some amusing games were played.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ray Frankie, and were highlighted by a beautiful angel food cake decorated in pink and blue and topped with a miniature bride.

A special guest at the shower was the bride-elect's grand-mother, Mrs. Carl Selzer.

A delightful pre-wedding shower was held recently for Miss Carol Thompson at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Dwyer, Okanagan Mission. Mrs. Cecil Reid was co-hostess to the 20 guests, and on her arrival the bride-elect was presented with a pink and white corsage and led to a decorated chair trimmed in pink and white.

Amusing games were played, and many lovely and useful gifts were presented to the guest of honor in a decorated clothes basket.

A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Delores Lingor, whose marriage to Peter Schierbeck will take place on Oct. 19, was held at the home of Mrs. Russell Layman on Tuesday evening. The shower, which was arranged by her co-workers on the staff of the Daily Courier, was a complete surprise to the bride-elect who was brought to Mrs. Layman's house by a friend, Mrs. Hodgkinson.

On her arrival Miss Lingor was presented with a corsage of white satin roses made by Miss Judy Malen, and led to a decorated arm chair, and after several amusing games were played, including the making of a 'story of her life book', the many lovely gifts were presented to Miss Lingor in a cleverly decorated basket.

After the gifts had been opened and passed around, delicious refreshments were served by a special cake also made by Miss Malen. Mrs. Lingor was served by Mrs. Layman, Mrs. Frank Russell and Mrs. T. R. Lamb.

Attending the shower were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. B. Lingor and her sister Miss Donna Lingor from Pechand; Mrs. E. M. Schierbeck, mother of the groom-to-be, and his sister, Miss Chris Schierbeck of Rutland; Mrs. Layman's sister Mrs. T. R. Lamb; Mrs. Frank Russell and her sister-in-law Mrs. Kenneth Hryciw; Mrs. Carl Schmok, Mrs. Dwayne Turcotte, Mrs. Michael Utley, Mrs. M. J. Evans, Mrs. David Hodgkinson, Mrs. Ralph Knorr, Mrs. E. Fenwick, Miss Kathy Wiebe and Miss Judy Malen.

ANN LANDERS

Happiness Will Depend On Husband's Attitude

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to marry a young man I have gone with for two years. Vern's mother disliked me intensely from the moment we met. His father acts as if I don't exist. I've tried very hard to win them over but I have failed miserably.

To please Vern's family I joined Vern's church. I used to wear my hair long until his mother suggested I cut it. She insists on helping me select clothes because she says I have no taste. I stopped wearing pearlized nail polish because she said it looked cheap.

It is agony to have dinner with Vern's parents because of the long periods of silence. Last night I attempted to make some small talk and Vern's mother said, "Why don't you stop babbling?" I was so hurt I almost cried.

Vern's older brother married a girl they consider "inferior" socially and intellectually. Her life has been hell. I love Vern very much but I'm beginning to wonder if I have the strength to marry into his family. What do you think?—PLAIN JANE

Dear Jane: You don't say too much about Vern's attitude. What does he say when his parents put you down? Does he just sit there like a wart on a pickle? If so, you're going to wind up alongside your future sister-in-law. The key to your future with Vern lies in his ability to give you the emotional support you need to withstand his parents' hostility. If you can count on him, say "yes"—otherwise, forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: A close relative spends a great deal of time in our home. He is twice my age and I hesitate to be disrespectful. However, our children are now 5, 7 and 9 and they pick up words easily.

This relative calls certain racial groups by names which I abhor—Wop, Kike, Chink, Spic, Spade, Hunkie and so on. I have given him dirty looks but he ignores me. My husband says it isn't worth the trouble I might run into if I hit him on the head. What do you say?—MIDWESTERNER

Dear Miss: I say clobber the ignorant. Such talk should not be tolerated. Children learn a great deal more from example than from instruction. If you want them to be good Americans, teach them to respect all people.

Dear Ann Landers: You have written a lot about alcoholism as a sickness. What about cheating fathers? Is that a sickness, too?

My father is 44, good-looking, appears to be younger than he is and I always thought he and my mother were very happy. Last year my mother confided in me that my father has been running around with another woman. Since I learned of his unfaithfulness I have been unable to be civil to him. Our home life is horrible.

Don't tell me to talk it over with anyone. I'm too ashamed. Please tell me what to do. I feel so helpless.—ABC

Dear A: There is nothing you can do, which is why it's unfortunate your mother told you. She should have confided in someone else. If she felt the need to unburden herself, a clergyman or a counselor would have been more judicious choices.

"THE SKY IS FALLING" CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — City librarians working in the basement of the civic auditorium complained about the thump of basketballs and players' feet on the floor above until the roof caved in. Henry Eiche, city manager, said the floor of the 30-year-old auditorium had been weakened during the winter recreational program.

Retiring District Auditor And Wife Honored At Banquet

Mr. and Mrs. John Wormsbecker were the special guests at a retirement banquet held at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club Tuesday evening.

Members of the staff of the Unemployment Insurance Commission and their wives attended the banquet, which was hosted by the staff of the district audit office in honor of the retiring district auditor, who has established himself as a key figure in the organization and the community.

Mr. Wormsbecker has been the district auditor for the UIC in Kelowna for four of the 13 years he has been associated with the commission, and is also known for his many years of dedicated service in the Shriners. Since making his home in Kelowna he has been a member of the executive committee of that association and most recently has held the post of vice-president.

After some years in private industry, Mr. Wormsbecker joined the Unemployment Insurance Commission, as an auditor in the office at Victoria. He moved from there to the office at Vancouver, then, after another stay in Victoria, he came to Kelowna to handle the district audit office here.

The master-of-ceremonies for the banquet was Fred MacInnes, a member of the audit staff and to mark the occasion and to show their considerable respect for Mr. Wormsbecker and his wife, Helen, the Commission staff presented them with a combination electric clock-barometer. The presentation was made by Art Fuller on behalf of the staff.

The director of the Unemployment Insurance Commission's Kelowna office, Ted Palmer, gave a short address speaking on behalf of the Chief Commissioner, Jacques Des Roches.

Hearing Impediments Cause Delinquency

VANCOUVER (CP) — A University of British Columbia professor says speech and hearing impediments can lead to juvenile delinquency.

Dr. John Gilbert, assistant professor in UBC's pediatrics department, said in an interview that it is extremely important that children with speech and hearing defects be diagnosed and treated as early as possible. He said that most children with speech problems grow out of them by the age of 12 or 13, but this is often far too late. These children will already have experienced difficulty in learning to read and in communicating with other children.

Dr. Gilbert said recent surveys in Okalla provincial jail indicate that 83 per cent of the inmates have reading difficulties. "We depend on reading as much as we do on speech after the age of seven," said the professor. "I would love to know how many Okalla inmates have had speech problems in their early life."

and the director of the Pacific Region, Duncan Young. He also presented the retiring district auditor with a framed citation, from the Chief Commissioner, which expressed appreciation for the valued service John Wormsbecker has rendered to the Commission and the people of Canada.

Asked about their plans for the future, the guests of honor said that they will make their home in Vancouver, but look forward to frequent opportunities to visit the Okanagan, particularly Kelowna, to continue the many friendships they have formed during their residence here.

Gene Kelly Dances Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gene Kelly will display his dancing form on the Jackie Gleason television show Saturday night, but it will mark only a temporary return to his hoofing heyday.

"Dancing is an avocation for me now," he remarked after a workout prior to leaving for the Miami Beach telecast. "I found out that I don't have to dance to be happy."

It wasn't an easy lesson, Kelly admitted. For 25 years on Broadway and in films, dancing was almost his whole existence. No one worked harder at it than Gene Kelly.

"Then in 1956 I tore the cartilage in my knee while skiing," he said. "It was two whole years before I could dance again. For a guy who has been dancing all his life, that was tough to take. But I began to realize there was something else I could do to make a living."

That was directing. Kelly has just finished directing the most expensive musical of film history, Hello, Dolly! for 20th Century-Fox. Total cost of the film is reported at $20,000,000.

Kelly started work in the film in October, 1967.

He observed: "I will make more on the Gleason show in one day than I will in two weeks of directing. No doubt about it, the performers are the top dogs nowadays. It's a performer's market."

HAS NO REGRETS

"There comes the point in every dancer's life when he's got to quit altogether or start cutting down. I felt it. I would require three months to get into solid shape, and another three months before I could get into the ring. Even then, I wouldn't be able to do what I used to do."

Kelly will continue with Dolly until spring, when he expects to finish cutting the film. When it will be seen, nobody knows. Supposedly it can't be released until the stage show leaves New

Rejected Play To Be Seen

LONDON (CP) — John Colicos, prominent Montreal actor, will star in the controversial play The Soldiers which is to open in London in November, shortly after the Lord Chamberlain loses his powers to censor stage plays.

The play, written by West German playwright Rolf Hochuth, was rejected by Britain's National Theatre last year on the grounds that it suggested Sir Winston Churchill was involved in the wartime death of a Polish general, Wladislaw Sikorski.

When the script was submitted to the Lord Chamberlain, who has had powers since 1824 to ban plays, so many cuts and restrictions were made that the play was abandoned.

It was put on in Toronto where Colicos performed so well in the role of Sir Winston that he was picked to play the same leading role in the London performance. The Lord Chamberlain's powers to censor plays ends Sept. 26.

Kenneth Tynan, literary agent of the National Theatre and one of the play's sponsors, said he would be "very surprised" if the Churchill family is upset by the performance.

Aside from Colicos, no casting has been decided as yet. The theatre, still to be chosen, will be in the West End.

The director will be Clifford Williams of the Royal Shakespeare Company who staged the Canadian production.

ANDY WARHOL, pop artist and producer of underground movies, talks with French actress Martine Barat during party at The Factory, Warhol's studio in New York's Greenwich Village. It was the first party Warhol gave since he was shot by one of his proteges early in June. Miss Barat wears a dress with a plunging neckline open nearly to the waist.

Warhol Now More Profound After Shooting Incident

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Warhol, pop artist and producer of underground movies, held his first party since he was shot by one of his proteges early in June.

"He's even more profound and more beautiful now than before if that's possible," said Ingrid Superstar of the man who has two paintings of Campbell Soup cans in the Museum of Modern Art.

Warhol himself said he saw no "new Warhol" as a result of the shooting.

"Before I thought it would be fun to be dead," said Warhol whose movie The Chelsea Girls was the first underground movie to be shown in commercial theatres. "Now I know it's fun to be alive."

"It didn't change Andy," said Brigid Polk. "He's today. That was yesterday."

The party, at The Factory—his studio in Greenwich Village—was thrown for the introduction of Nico's new album, The Marble Index, an ear-piercing 16 minutes that everyone said was beautiful.

"It truly was," said Warhol. "Nico spent the whole summer writing it in the bathtub. She works well there."

The 200 or so guests, dressed in Indian headbands, dresses that opened to the waist, one wedding gown, a few tuxedos, velvet suits, and blue jeans, sat on the floor of Andy's studio to sip wine—1947 vintage—and eat picnic lunches.

Warhol has decided not to press charges against Valeria Solanis, the 28-year-old actress charged in the shooting that kept him in the hospital for nearly two months. She is undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Julie's Image Not Poppins

PARIS (Reuters)—British movie actress Julie Andrews is moving further away from the wholesome image which brought her fame in Mary Poppins and The Sound of Music. In her latest movie, Darling Lili, now being shot in Paris, she plays Lili Smith, a fictitious London singing star during the First World War who turns out to be a German spy.

In one scene, she and a truckload of soldiers sing the bawdy song of the period, Mademoiselle from Armentieres, and in another she tries to seduce co-star Rock Hudson to obtain war secrets.

Although Miss Andrews is probably best known for her clean-cut, healthy roles in movies, she also has played parts which have shown another side of her talents.

She was sexy and witty in a non-speaking role in The Americanization of Emily and recently played the glamorous, temperamental Gertrude Lawrence in Star.

SCENE CHANGES

Darling Lili, directed by Blake Edwards, has been shot in Ireland, Belgium and France. The company will move to Hollywood later for more filming.

One of the main settings in the movie is the facade of the Paris home of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Their mansion on the edge of the Bois de Boulogne is shown as Lili's Paris home and the drive leading to it one of the centres of the high life of 1914 Paris.

Miss Andrews, born at Walton-on-Thames, near London, 33 years ago, became a hit on Broadway in the early 1950s as the dizzy flapper Polly Brown in Sandy Wilson's musical spoof of the 1920s The Boy Friend.

She followed this with a spectacular success as Eliza Doolittle in My Fair Lady.

She won an Academy Award for Mary Poppins.

Book Corner

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Of Pierre Elliott Trudeau it can be said that never before has so much been written by so many in such a short time of any other Canadian prime minister. And more is on the way.

Few of those who attempt to assess the man who rose from relative obscurity to the highest political office in the land seem to look at him objectively.

To his admirers, he is revered as the hope for Canada's future. To his detractors, in the words of former secretary of state Judy LaMarsh, he is "that bastard."

One of the best closeups so far is a 196-page quickie paperback, Trudeau—A Man for Tomorrow, turned out by three Toronto newspaper men. They beat to the punch a host of other writers who have Trudeau books on the way, and their effort quickly went through a 30,000-copy first printing. A second printing of 10,000 has been ordered.

The three are Douglas Stuebing, self-described as a liberal, John Marshall, who says he is a socialist, and Gary Oakes, termed a youthful non-conformist, all of the Toronto Telegram. They produced a straightforward, factual and candid account of the life and times of a prime minister who is like none Canadians have had before.

TOOK DIGGING

Basically, Trudeau—A Man for Tomorrow is biographical, the filled-out skeleton of "obit material" that is in the files of every newspaper. Here and there are tidbits, reports of little-known events and incidents and conversations that took digging to unearth.

It's engrossing when the writers delve into the intricacies and machinations of behind-the-scenes manoeuvring that went on during the battle for the Liberal party leadership, decided on a hectic Saturday night in Ottawa April 6. Or when they tell how Mr. Trudeau outsmarted the press in seeking the Governor-General's approval for dissolution of Parliament before the June 25 general election.

The authors worked on the story all the way and they report nothing essentially new—other reporters on the scene observed the same things—but the account is given in a way that television cannot approach and day-to-day newspaper reports, because of space limitations, can only skim.

WANTED HIM OUT

Take their version of the events of that Saturday night:

The old veteran, Paul Martin, had withdrawn and Paul Hellyer had been advised to get out, too, and support John Turner. This was an attempt to jump Turner over Robert Winters and edge out the leading Trudeau.

"Do you really think I should?" said Hellyer, his forehead beading with sweat. "Judy LaMarsh leaned into the box. There were tears in her eyes—and a Winters button on her dress."

"It's tough, Paul, but what the hell. This way we'll be letting that bastard take over the party."

"Paul she wanted in, but even more, she wanted Pierre out."

The book is replete with such accounts as the authors view what they term "the most arresting public personality in the country."

It flags, though, with a purported report, in italics, of a fictional meeting of the top men of a fictional advertising agency, supposedly shortly after the leadership convention victory which the agency is supposed to have won for its client. Plans are being made to sell The Product to The Consumer in a general election.

The authors justify the passage:

"There is of course no evidence available to indicate that such a meeting took place, but one has a nagging suspicion that something of the sort must have occurred."

How else to explain what happened? A man few Canadians had even heard of six months before except as some weirdo who wore sandals and an ascot into the Commons suddenly became Liberal leader and prime minister.

"The political guru called Pierre Elliott Trudeau brought an exciting new style to Canadian politics, and things can never be quite the same again."

Now that Mr. Trudeau has his majority government and must prove himself to Parliament and country, what of tomorrow?

Write Stuebing, Marshall and Oakes:

"We hope for much from Pierre Elliott Trudeau, yet he who has been right about so many things may have been right again when he commented on the tendency of the people to 'chew up' its heroes."

"Anyone who attempts to isolate his chances of success is confronted with an evolving Trudeau in an evolving Canada."

Trudeau—A Man for Tomorrow, Douglas Stuebing, John Marshall and Gary Oakes, $1.95, Clarke, Irwin.

Foreign Owners To Be Curbed

OTTAWA (CP) — Revised regulations to ensure greater Canadian control of radio and television stations, with foreign ownership limited to 20 per cent of voting shares and 60 per cent of investment, were announced today.

Formerly, foreign interests could own up to 25 per cent of voting stock and there was no limit on non-voting investment.

In addition, all chairman and directors of companies engaged in broadcasting must be Canadians. The old regulation limited radio and TV licences to Canadian companies in which at least two-thirds of the directors were Canadian citizens.

Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier announced the new regulations which are effective retroactively to Sept. 20.

"FOOD FOR THOUGHT"

New Lady Now At 'Junction'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There's a new lady at Petticoat Junction, but she won't be new to veteran television watchers.

June Lockhart has begun a starring role in the CBS series, substituting for the ailing Bea Benaderet. The latter filmed five shows for the coming season, then asked to be relieved for further rest and treatment for the lung tumor doctors discovered last fall.

"I'm sorry it had to be under these circumstances," says Miss Lockhart, "but I'm delighted to be joining the show."

"For one thing, I play a doctor, and I'm a medical buff; I read the doctors' journals every month."

"Also, I'm a railroad buff. My husband (architect John Lindsay) and I belong to a society of ferroequinologists, which means iron horse students, and we often take trips with fellow members to explore old rail routes."

"An added factor is that I'll be playing a doctor from the big city, and I'll be able to wear smart clothes—and to do some comedy. On the stage and in live television, I always played comedy. But in films and in television series, I somehow got typed in serious roles."

"I spent six years in Lassie, clutching my breast and calling, 'Lassie, come home!'"

PLAYED CHILD

The daughter of film performers Gene and Kathleen Lockhart, June began her acting career by playing their daughter in MGM's A Christmas Carol in 1938. She had a lively career as an ingenue in such films as All This and Heaven, Too, Meet Me in St. Louis, White Cliffs of Dover and even Son of Lassie. She graduated from little-girl roles with a seductive performance in For Love or Money on Broadway, then returned to films as a leading lady.

The actress then spent three years as space mother in Lost in Space. One of the happiest days of her career came last spring when the series was cancelled. She explained: "I hate to sound ungrateful. But how can you relate to a show in which the big issue is a defect in the inner workings of a robot?"

LAND OF MAKE BELIEVE

Fun, action, make-believe and learning are among the ingredients to be found in CBC-TV's week-morning preschool series Mr. Dress-Up. Ernie Coombs is the remarkable Mr. Dress-Up, who lives in a 'community' fashioned from the child's own world of imagination and experience. Each day he is joined by his puppet friends Casey and Finnegan, and his special helper Susan.

Inquiry Sought On CBS Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Salant, president of CBS News, Thursday called a federal inquiry into his network's coverage of Democratic convention violence in Chicago "immensely dangerous."

He said the Federal Communications Commission had questioned CBS coverage of the Chicago disorders, on the basis of what it described as "hundreds of complaints."

The CBS executive declared that the FCC's letter of inquiry "may well be the most troublesome threat to our role as part of the free press that has yet been devised."

"Are news judgments to be made finally by some agency of the government?" Salant asked at a convention of CBS radio affiliates.

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley criticized the television coverage of disorders in downtown Chicago during the convention.

Daley and others complained that the networks failed to mention the provocations by demonstrators in Chicago or the injuries to police.

Salant produced five recordings in which correspondents mentioned objects hurled at police and one telling of a severe head injury suffered by one policeman.

Nakedness Upon U.K. Stage Fears Censor No Longer

LONDON (Reuters) — The British theatre censor laid down his blue pencil forever today—a signal for a musical abounding in nakedness to take the stage.

Lord Cobbold, whose predecessors as Lord Chamberlain wielded the hand of censorship for 400 years, today gave way to a new Theatre Act which abolishes his office.

It opened the way for performance of banned plays by such playwrights as Arthur Miller, John Osborne and Tennessee Williams.

More immediately—Friday night, in fact—the controversial hippie Broadway musical Hair, in which several young men and women display themselves naked, will have its British premiere.

The cast of Hair has been gleefully waiting in the wings for the Lord Chamberlain to disappear from the scene. Originally scheduled to open July 24, Hair was put off because producer James Verner wished to present the play "as closely as possible in style and manner" to the Broadway production. The Lord Chamberlain rejected the first script.

Among other plays recently banned by the Lord Chamberlain was Early Morning by Edward Bond, which depicted Queen Victoria and Florence Nightingale as lesbians. The play included scenes in which human limbs were eaten on stage.

In February, American Actress Lelia Goldoni was forbidden to reveal her naked bosom in Ben Jonson's Volpone.

Last August, a theatre cancelled plans to show America Hurrah—three satirical one-act plays attacking American society—following objections from the Lord Chamberlain.

And in 1966, a dramatic version of The Miller's Tale, one of the 600-year-old Canterbury Tales by medieval English poet Geoffrey Chaucer, was banned.

Earlier, plays about the late President Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy also were banned.

The onus of censorship now has been transferred from the Lord Chamberlain to the theatre managers. Drama now is subject to ordinary laws on obscenity, sedition or racial incitement.

And The Last of Superstars Makes Her Debut In TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The set was a dining room—tastefully but not opulently furnished in "situation-comedy traditional," which means American colonial.

Klieg lights illuminated the homey scene. The cameras were in position.

The heavy door of the closed set opened wide and the star of the show, Doris Day, walked in. It was not really a big entrance, but it was communicated instantly to every person there.

Miss Day, makeup impeccable, every blonde hair in place, wore a pair of marvellously fitted blue denim pants, red-and-white checkered shirt and red moccasins.

Other members of the cast—featured player Denver Pyle, and a six-year-old boy, Todd Starke—had materialized as if by magic.

Miss Day, without a wasted motion, seated herself at the dining room table and opened her script. Todd ran up a nearby flight of stairs—leading to nowhere—to await his cue.

Pyle settled himself comfortably in the armchair to Miss Day's left. Suddenly the atmosphere of the set was as business-like as a bank.

On the murmured instructions of the director, Bruce Bilson, the three ran through the scene once.

HAS NEW SHOW

They were shooting the seventh show in the new CBS TV series in which Miss Day, for two decades a top box-office film favorite and one of the last of the superstars, makes her debut in television.

Then they filmed the scene. Just once, Miss Day, with a gracious word or a nod, threaded her way off the set, disappearing behind the heavy door.

"A real pro," murmured a studio representative as she passed by. "One take. She really knows what she's doing. And she's a hard worker."

The Columbia Broadcasting System, too, knew what it was doing when it nailed Miss Day for a television series and some movies for some astronomic figure. Allegations in a current lawsuit over the estate of Martin Melcher, Miss Day's late husband, manager and producer, indicate the star is to receive $750,000 for the first 13 shows of her 26-episode series.

Miss Day's film career, of course, shows no signs of flagging and she remains a durable property of vast star-power. The Doris Day Show, as the new TV series is called, is an odds-on favorite to be a big hit.

Doris Day has been playing pretty, bright, amusing maidens on the screen for so long it has become a sort of rueful industry joke. Recently Miss Day, now 44, started taking on roles of a young married woman, and her box-office appeal continued undimmed.

The woman who was born Doris Kappelhoff in Cincinnati has built a solid success over the years.

She began as a singer on a local radio station and—with a new surname, Day—moved on as a nightclub performer. Then came singing dates with the big bands of the day and her first recording hit, Sentimental Journey. She made her first film in 1947 and soon was the country's favorite woman star.

In the new series she plays a young widow, a former band singer, who returns to her father's ranch to raise her two sons, aged six and 10. In real life, she is a rich widow with one son, Terry, who is in his mid-20s and handles his mother's considerable business affairs.

Song Fest Planned With Welsh Flavor

CARDIFF (AP) — A singing festival for persons of Welsh descent living in Canada and the United States will be held here next June 27-29, just before Prince Charles is invested as Prince of Wales. More than 200 persons are expected.

If You're Going To Play Hamlet Do It With An Original Performance

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"There's no sense in playing Hamlet unless you can do something different with it or shed new light. Richard Burton's Hamlet was disgraceful; it had nothing to say. I have a totally new concept, something that has never even been dreamed of before. It is going to be sensational."

There can be no doubt that Richard Harris is Irish. The confirmation comes when you hear him spinning dreams about his playing Hamlet. Yet it apparently is no dream. At least Paramount doesn't think so, having invested $1,000,000 in order that Harris can present his own interpretation of the gloomy Dane to the London stage and film audiences everywhere.

Harris is a man to whom nothing seems impossible. He decided he wanted to play King Arthur in Camelot, and he sold Warner Brothers and director Josh Logan on the idea. He wanted to enter the pop music field, and he sold more than 1,000,000 copies of his first record, MacArthur Park.

FACES CHALLENGE

Hamlet seems like a more formidable challenge.

"I admit it," said the actor, covered with coal black for his role in The Molly Maguires.

"An actor would be taking a terrible chance trying Hamlet at this particular time. David Warner recently did it in England, Burton's Hamlet was widely shown, and Laurence Olivier's film is still around."

Also, Toronto-born Christopher Plummer's TV effort at Elsinore, Maximilian Schell's German version, plus the derivative Rozencranz and Guilden-stern are dead on stage and soon to be a film.

"But Hamlet is still one of the greatest roles ever written and it deserves to be done again—if you can bring something fresh and new to it. And I will. I have been wrestling with this problem for six years. Then one night last year at Malibu after I had finished a day's work on Camelot, it came to me in a blinding flash."

WON'T REVEAL IDEA

Harris imparted his find to a few writers, producers and directors; all were struck by the originality of it, he said. He won't reveal what the concept is. In fact, he plans to bar audiences from preview performances in London lest the secret leak out.

"Most Hamlets deal with such matters as whether he was in love with his mother or whether or not he slept with Ophelia," Harris said. "Mine will be much more basic, much more revealing than that."

"It will not necessarily be a modern Hamlet. The sets and the costumes will be timeless; it could take place anywhere, anytime."

A key to the Harris Hamlet may be in the choice of his Ophelia—Faye Dunaway.

"Most Ophelias are weak, wispy characters," Harris remarked.

"Faye will be entirely different, and she will be terrific!"

"She and I have been discussing the play for two years—before she did Bonnie and Clyde."

Because both Harris and Miss

Dunaway have film commitments that won't quit, they will be able to play Hamlet in London's West End for only six weeks beginning in March. During the second week of the run, Harris said, they will begin filming.

REASONS TO SMILE

Draw (The Laughing Stock) Kitch has good reasons to be smiling. After sweeping the early-late class at the Billy Foster Memorial Raceway last year, the speedy young stock car driver moved up to tackle B modifieds this year, with equal success. With this car he won 34 races and won the points championship in his class. Here he poses with the more than two dozen trophies he's won in the past two years at the quarter-mile Kelowna speedway. Like many of the more than 40

stockers who drove this year, Kitch is already planning a "better-looking and faster car for next year." (Courier photo)

Edmonton Got Big Race Because 'East Bickered'

TORONTO (CP) — Retired driver Stirling Moss said Thursday that Edmonton got the rich 1968 Can-Am car race mainly because of bickering and politics between established tracks in the Toronto and Montreal areas.

The race this Sunday, the only Canadian event in the six-race Can-Am circuit, carries $51,000 in total prize money.

Moss, en route to Edmonton for the event, said he had not seen the new track there yet, "but I understand it's a good one."

"They got the race mainly because there was so much fighting between Mosport in Toronto and le Circuit at St. Jovite in Quebec."

"There was so much disagreement that it fell to Edmonton and actually, I feel it might be a good thing for Canadian racing."

Moss said there is a possibility the Can-Am series may expand to "10 or 12 events" and "it's likely Canada will get two or three of these."

"If Edmonton puts up a good show and the meet Sunday is a success, I would hope that next year even if we get St. Jovite and Mosport in, we would keep Edmonton."

The other five races on the circuit at present are all in the United States.

Moss, who does public relations work for a wax company, described the Can-Am series with its gross prize list, if about $500,000 as "the richest series of races in the world so far as sports cars are concerned and it carries the richest individual purses in racing."

With expansion, he sees the total prize money climbing as high as $1,000,000 a year.

Rebel Golfers Get A Boost

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rebellious tour players of the new American Professional Golfers Association got a boost in their war with the Professional Golfers Association.

The tournament director of five major stops in 1969, with combined purses of $700,000, announced Thursday his sponsors were boarding the APG bandwagon.

Paul C. Warren, the director, said sponsors "have indicated complete support and their desire and intention to contract with the newly formed APG at such time that they might be permitted to do so."

Warren, a tournament impresario from Cleveland, issued the statement here. He is vacationing at nearby La Costa.

The 1969 tournaments involved, Warren said, are the Atlanta and Philadelphia classics and the Florida Citrus, Jacksonville and Cleveland opens.

"At the individual direction of each of my five sponsors, I am prepared to accept the dates offered by my sponsors by the APG in 1969," Warren said.

Moss, who does public relations work for a wax company, described the Can-Am series with its gross prize list, if about $500,000 as "the richest series of races in the world so far as sports cars are concerned and it carries the richest individual purses in racing."

With expansion, he sees the total prize money climbing as high as $1,000,000 a year.

Chuvato fought his way back into the heavyweight picture Thursday night with a convincing victory over Manuel Ramos in a fight the Canadian champion considered a "crossroads."

"This fight was very important to me—it was a crossroads," the 31-year-old Toronto fighter said after his fifth-round technical knockout of the 24-year-old Mexican champion.

Chuvato may take on Jerry Quarry, Floyd Patterson or Buster Mathis in Madison Square Garden Nov. 14.

Mathis, in the co-featured bout, came from behind and stopped James J. Woody of New York in 2:50 of the sixth round after doing virtually nothing but dance around the ring for five rounds.

"I'm going to try and match Chuvato with Jerry Quarry, Floyd Patterson or Buster Mathis for Nov. 14," said matchmaker Teddy Brenner.

Kelowna Needs Victory Against Chase Tonight

By ALJE KAMMINGA (Courier Sports Editor)

The Kelowna Cubs play the first game of a wicked double-header today when they host Chase at Elk's Stadium. The Cubs travel to Oroville Saturday where they will meet the Oroville High School in an exhibition game.

Kelowna head coach Larry Johnson feels the Oroville team will be the tougher opponent but is leaving little to chance in tonight's game, which is a regularly-scheduled contest of the Okanagan Mainline Football League.

A victory for Kelowna would put them on top of the league standings with a 2-0 record. They defeated the defending champion Penticton Golden Hawks 14-0 in a league game two weeks ago in Penticton.

Kelowna and Chase go into tonight's contest straight off a pair of resounding defeats. The Cubs were humiliated a week ago by the Notre Dame High School of Vancouver. Losing 47-0, they did not manage a first down until the third quarter and mustered only 28 yards of total offense.

Chase took a 57-0 drubbing in an exhibition game with the Immaculata Dons last weekend. In that game, they lost yards rushing and managed only 78 yards passing. The Chase quarterback had five passes intercepted and the Immaculata defence came up with four blocked punts.

The Don offence rolled up 278 total yards against Chase. Immaculata is not a member of the Okanagan Mainline Football League, while Chase, a community of about 2,000 people, is a first-year member.

If there was a bright spot for either Chase or Kelowna in the defeats, it would have to lie in favor of the Cubs.

Notre Dame is regarded as one of the toughest school football teams in the province. Although the Dons have not yet played in Kelowna, it is doubtful if they are as tough as the Jugglers from Notre Dame.

So, while both Kelowna and Chase were soundly walloped, it appears Kelowna was walloped by a tougher team.

"We haven't seen the Chase football team before so we'll be going into the game with nothing but respect for their ability," Coach Johnson said today. "After our loss, we cannot afford to regard any team as a pushover."

Wings Blank Maple Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltender Bruce Gamble of Toronto Maple Leafs has only two weeks left to find out how to stop Detroit Red Wings.

The chunky netminder was the villain of the piece Thursday for the second consecutive night as the Red Wings blanked the Leafs 2-0 in Detroit in a National Hockey League exhibition game.

Wednesday, Gamble shared goaltending duties with Al Smith as the Wings hammered Toronto 5-0 in Maple Leaf Stadium. And with only three weeks to go before the league opens regular season play Oct. 11, Gamble either has to learn some new moves or buy some bricks.

Frank Mahovlich, traded by Toronto to the Wings last season, opened the Detroit scoring in the first period and rookie Nick Libett beat Gamble three minutes later.

At the other end of the rink, meanwhile, goaltender Roger Crozier played the first half of the game for Detroit, making 15 stops, and was relieved by Roy Edwards who made 14 saves.

Gordie Howe, Detroit's great winger, left the game in the second period with a bruised knee.

Fishing Continues

By JIM TREADGOLD

THERE HAS BEEN little fishing in the area, but, for the most part, those that have been fishing the upper lakes are reporting fair to good success. Most camps stay open until the middle of October so boats and accommodations will be available until then.

A few reports from Okanagan lake show that Kokanee fishing has been keeping up well, but there have been no reports of the bigger trout taken this past week. Due to the cooler type of fall weather we are getting, I expect the large trout will surface earlier than usual this fall and it is possible some of these good fish will be taken near the surface by the middle of October.

Usually the better fishing for the big ones does not start until well into November. This is also expected at Shuswap Lake where reports have been fair.

For some good late fall fishing in mountain lakes I would recommend Wood, Jimmy and Niskolith lakes.

There has been a good run of Kokanee up the creeks this month and with the water in all creeks high for this time of season these fish have not been molested by the kids as much as usual. The fish ladder on Mission Creek is working well and there has been a good run of these fish to the upper reaches of the creek as far as Gallaghers Falls, which should insure a good hatch of Kokanee fingerlings next spring.

NOT TOO MUCH game has been taken this past week. There were a lot of grouse and deer hunters out last weekend, but little was taken. With the big game well scattered and still mostly at the higher elevations and grouse being on the short list this season there was not much mangling going on.

Another moose was reported bagged on the west side, this time by Brian Minchen, a young and keen hunter. He got a big one for his first moose.

I went into the Porcupine area in the Monashee range for deer, but found the deer were off the high elevation of 7,000 ft. and down into the timber after the snow storm in that area late last week. The Porcupine is a nice area in Alpine country, but heavily populated by cattle. An access road was put into the area last year.

While in there we visited the Keefer lakes and camped there. There are two lakes, the main one where the Camp is located, is full of the half-pound variety of trout and the other lake, which is a short walk in lake, has bigger fish. Both lakes produce well.

We returned via Christian Valley and Beaverdell and found the roads quite good, especially the main Christian Valley road, which used to be narrow and rough. We came over the short cut from State Creek in the Christian Valley to Beaver Creek and Beaverdell. The top section of this short cut is being widened and improved, with a lot of machinery on the job.

This section would be bad in wet weather at this time, but will be a good road when construction is finished. Just why this section is being improved is sort of a mystery to me. The roughest part of the whole road is in the Big White, McCulloch area, which is full of bad holes. Take note Reggie Martin and get that grader up there.

HAVE JUST RECEIVED a copy of the brief on the proposed Class "A" park for the Okanagan Mountain. Squally Point area, that was recently sent into Recreation Minister Ken Kiernan, by the Okanagan Similkameen Parks Society. The area includes the remaining five miles of Crown-owned lakeshore around Squally Point, all of the west face of Okanagan Mountain, Divide and Baker Lakes, some 25 square miles in all.

In all I think this is a good proposal as the area is almost undeveloped at present, and mostly Crown lands. If not held for a future park area no doubt the area, especially the lakeshore, would become privately owned before many years. I do not know just how a Class A park there would affect the cattle grazing leases in the area or just how it would affect the hunter. Okanagan Mountain is the "home" of the local elk herds and are hunted a fair amount there by Kelowna and Penticton hunters.

The original release of Elk, I believe in the 1920's was done in this area, and the top section of Okanagan Mountain is an ideal elk range.

A Class A park does not necessarily rule out hunting, but I will get more information on that point for this proposal soon. The brief is well put up and I am told received with interest by Mr. Kiernan. If there is to a park set up in this area we do not want the squabble that has gone on for a number of years between the Silver Star Park and the Game Clubs in the Okanagan. These fights we can do without. There must be a clear understanding for all parties when the park is set up. The most interested of course will be the game clubs, the cattle growers, and the outdoor recreationist.

There have been a number of local parties going into the East Kootenay in quest of big game. To date, success has been exceptionally poor, especially on elk and it appears our predictions of seven or eight years ago are coming true, as the elk are getting scarcer year by year.

The guides in the Elk Valley are all but finished as they put cannot produce for their high as the customers. It is most sure that the taking of cow elk should be stopped or greatly curtailed.

Will P.E.I. Continue To Float On Tide Of Ottawa Subsidies?

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Will Prince Edward Island always float on Ottawa's subsidies?

This was the question put bluntly here by the federal inquiry into Canada's housing problems.

Sub-standard housing is a problem in the island's cities, towns and countryside, but just part of the wider problems of a lagging economy that the federal government is trying to spur with a mix of grants and development programs.

Transport Minister Hellyer and his housing inquiry wanted the answer here of whether the federal money is doing the job.

"Why should we do so much to entice people to stay in Prince Edward Island?" demanded Robert Campeau, the millionaire Ottawa developer who speaks for the virtues of free enterprise on the Hellyer group.

Replied Walter Cox, Charlottetown mayor and a witness at Tuesday's public hearing: Industry, such as packers of frozen fish and vegetables, can be attracted to make the island's economy self-sustaining.

HAVE MANY PROBLEMS In housing alone, the island offered a few signs of progress, but it had many special problems.

Spokesmen for the provincial government, Charlottetown and Summerside conceded that lack of building skills and costs of importing materials added several thousands of dollars to the price of a new home.

At the same time, they said, average income is so low on the island that few can afford to borrow under terms of the National Housing Act.

George Key, Summerside mayor and the newly-elected leader of the Conservative party on the island, said even professional men earning $9,000 a year and more cannot meet NHA mortgage payments.

"We have not had one private housing start this year in the town of Summerside," he told the hearing.

Mr. Key, Mayor Walter Cox of Charlottetown and Harold Verge of the province's Economic Improvement Corp. offered a combination of programs to tailor the NHA to needs of the island's low-income families.

Their central proposal was for help to the schemes of co-operative housing already making strides here. Small groups of individuals in an income range of $3,000 to $8,500 are combining to borrow federal money at an interest rate of 6 1/2 per cent and build their own homes.

The islanders want the income limit reduced even further. The 1981 census showed that five of nine island wage-earning families made less than $3,000 a year.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

Here is another hand from the Canada — Kenya match on which Kehela distinguished himself by exceptionally fine play.

Murray was North and Kehela South for Canada when they reached four hearts on the bidding shown. West led the queen of diamonds. East overtook with the king and continued with the ace, which South ruffed.

Playing as though he could see through the backs of the cards, Kehela cashed the A-K of trumps, entered dummy with a spade, ruffed the nine of diamonds, cashed the A-K of clubs, and put East on lead with a club.

East won with the jack and cashed his high trump, but with only the Q-9-5 of spades left in his hand, he had to return a spade. Kehela went up with the jack. As a result of this well-conceived endplay, he made the contract for a score of 420 points.

There were several subtle inferences that led Kehela to adopt this method of play. It seemed highly likely that East would not overtake the queen of diamonds at trick one unless he had three diamonds to the A-K.

Starting with this as a base, and proceeding on the assumption that hearts and clubs would both be divided 3-2, Kehela set his sights on an endplay against East as the most likely method of escaping the spade loser that would otherwise sink the contract.

The Kenya declarer in the same contract at the other table was not presented with the same opportunity to shine. West (Elliott, playing with Sheardown) chose the three of spades as his opening lead and South properly decided that his best chance for the contract was that West had led from the queen.

Accordingly, he played low from dummy and went down one when he eventually lost a trick in each suit. As a result, Canada picked up 470 points on a spade, ruffed the nine of dia-

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Saturday could prove to be a big day in your life. You might, quite unexpectedly, find the solution to a long-pending problem, and you will find it a highly auspicious day for launching new enterprises, especially those of long-range value. Capitalize on your best ideas now.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, the year ahead should bring great happiness in your personal life. Domestic, social and sentimental interests should prove highly stimulating with emphasis on romance during November, January, May, late June and late July; on travel and social activities between now and mid-January, next July and August. In the latter connection, you will find many opportunities for making some valuable new contacts.

cerned, excellent headway can be made through a comprehensive and well-planned program — if you launch it soon and follow through consistently. Advancement, with corresponding monetary reward, can be expedited by extending your sphere of activity and showing a willingness to assume additional responsibilities — especially between early December and late March. Next good periods along material lines: Late June, and the entire months of July and August of next year. Do avoid extravagance and/or speculation during this forthcoming October and November, however. Caution during the November period will be extremely important.

A child born on this day will be unusually ambitious and independent, but may have to curb tendencies toward extreme irritability when opposed.

RUTLAND MEETING

Bowling Group Plans Season

RUTLAND — The Rutland Bowling Association annual meeting, held in the Centennial Hall, had a full agenda, with President Rudy Runzer in the chair and some 35 members present. The meeting approved payment of $100 to the Kelowna and District Bowling Association for affiliation fees to the B.C. Five Pin Bowling Association. The meeting also agreed to sponsor the high school league again this season and also to hold two clinics to instruct the school leaguers in the finer points of bowling.

They also plan to organize a youth bowling program for all young people from 9 to 20 years of age. This will involve many adults as instructors and coaches. Ten adults volunteered at the meeting, but more will be needed. Further action on the youth program will be taken at an executive meeting to be held Sept. 29, at Valley Lanes meeting room.

It is also hoped to organize a senior citizens bowling league this coming season. The presidents of the various leagues reported that they are all expanding to 16 teams this season, and the Tuesday mixed league of 32 teams. There is still room for more teams in some of the leagues.

Discussion of ways and means of financing the junior leagues brought adoption of a proposal to hold a Supper and Dance, and turkey raffle at the Centennial Community Centre, and the date of Dec. 7, was set for this first Bowling Association social event. The financial report showed a balance of just over $400 in hand.

Election of officers resulted in the re-election of Rudy Runzer as president, and Jim Kitaura as vice-president. The post of secretary-treasurer, held by Mrs. Ingrid Stein, was left open at present with Mrs. Stein continuing until her successor is appointed. The balance of the executive is made up of the eight league presidents. The association has sponsored the teams representing Rutland at the Interior championships to be held in March. This year the championship games will be played in Penticton. At the conclusion of the business meeting, coffee and donuts were served.

MEN'S LEAGUE
The members of the Wednesday Men's League of the Rutland Bowling Association held their annual meeting Wednesday evening, and elected the following officers—Jim Kitaura, president; Vic Emery, vice-president; George Lischka, secretary-treasurer, and Harry Tanemura, statistician.

DWARFS BOMBS
One Polaris-missile submarine carries more firepower than was delivered by all the bombs dropped during the Second World War.

Rutland Scouts And Cubs Compile Schedule Of Events

RUTLAND — The Rutland Boy Scout Troop and Wolf Cub Packs have begun to hold regular meetings in the Rutland Elementary School activity room. The Boy Scouts meet on Wednesday evenings, their scoutmaster being Harold Greenaway, and Jack Dendy is his assistant. Former Scoutmaster Bert Chichester also gives a hand from time to time, particularly at weekend camps and outings. The present enrolment is around 20 boys.

Two Wolf Cub Packs are in operation again, the First Pack held their initial meeting of the season on Monday evening last, and has a present membership of 30. Cubmaster is Hugh Fitzpatrick and his assistants are Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Jim Kitaura and David Horning.

The Second Pack, meeting on Tuesday nights, has a present strength of 22, and the Cubmaster is Clarence Kellerman, who has two assistants, Ewald Hanet and Art Appel.

The senior branch of scouting the venturers, are to hold their first meeting this coming weekend. In charge of this group as counsellor is Howard Johnson, a former scoutmaster. A new branch of the scout movement, including boys formerly in the older bracket of the boy scout group, but too young for rovers, the venturers, have a somewhat free hand in arranging their own program of activities, and the emphasis is on the outdoors, and on handicrafts. There were some 14 or more boys in this group last season.

Overseeing and assisting all groups is the local adult association, the group committee. Chairman of this committee is Ray Bradford, and Mrs. Helga Sewell is secretary. This group will be holding a general meeting at the home of the secretary on Friday Road on Monday evenings at 7:30 p.m., to which parents and others interested in scouting in its various phases are cordially invited to come.

LOVE UP WORDS DOWN
VANCOUVER (CP) — The average happily-married couple spends about 27 minutes a week in meaningful conversation, says Dr. Ray Birdwhistell, a psychiatry and anthropology professor at Philadelphia's Temple University. He said the spoken word as used by married couples diminishes as their love for each other increases.

European Group Makes Reactors

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — A consortium to build and sell nuclear power plants has been formed by British, German, Belgian and Italian companies, informed sources said Thursday. The consortium, called Inter-nuclear with headquarters in Belgium, will exploit high temperature gas reactors, and construct nuclear power plants using them.
